KINGSTON IS SLIPPING INTO SEA; 1200 DEAD

Practically Every Building in Jamaica's Capital Is in Ruins.

THOUSANDS ARE INJURED

Panic-Stricken Refugees Fall From Docks—Lighters Save Many.

U. S. CONSUL'S APPEAL

In Cablegram to Post-Dispatch He Says City Must Have Assistance.

HOLLAND BAY, Jamaica, Jan. 17.—The shores of the harbor of Kingston are sinking and the earthquake-racked city seems to be slipping into the sea. The bed of the harbor is under water to a depth, in some places, of 100 feet.

Hardly a building is left standing in the city of Kingston. The police estimate the number of dead 1200. The total may run higher when the ruins of the more densely populated sections are searched.

Special trains are rushing the survivors to Port Antonio for shelter. The injured number several thousand, and about 10,000 persons are homeless. Lighters are rescuing persons from under the docks—unfortunates driven to the wharves by flames and pushed overboard by the moddened mobs fighting for places of safety.

Reports agree that the entire business section of Kingston is completely demolished mainly as a result of the fire, which started immediately after the earthquake. Port Antonio may be said to be completely unharmed, though the poorly built Town Hall was partly destroyed. The Titchfield Hotel, at Port Antonio, is uninjured, and all the clerks and employes of that establishment are safe.

The destroyed section of Kingston includes that portion of the town between East and West streets, from Tower street to the water front. All the piers are down with the exception of that of the Royal Mail Steam Packet Co., and that of the Government railway.

The Myrtle Bank Hotel, a favorite resort for Americans, is completely razed, and the large dry goods houses of Nathan K. Sherlick & Co. and all the other buildings in the vicinity have been consumed by the flames.

Lighters in Rescue Work.

The Elder-Dempster Co.'s steamer Port Kingston, and the Admiral Sampson, belonging to the United Fruit Co., are safe in Kingston harbor. The Port Kingston is being used as a hospital. Lighters of the United Friut Co. have been doing good work in rescuing people who were pushed overboard from the wharf by the half-maddened crowds seeking shelter from the flames. About 700 persons were saved in this way.

The City Hospital is overcrowded. The Military Hospital at Uppark Camp was destroyed by fire. 40 patients being burned to death. Hardly a building is left standing in the entire city of Kingston and every one not demolished is dangerously injured and uninhabitable. The Postoffice and the telegraph office are among the buildings destroyed. The death list probably wil ltotal many hundreds, but it is impossible to furnish an accurate estimate at present. The police estimate the dead at 1200. The injured number several thousand and about 10,000 persons are homeless.

Prominent Men Among Dead.

Some very prominent business men are among the dead, including A. M. Nathan and Charles Sherlock, the leading merchants of Kingston; many of the most prominent physicians and Capt. T. Constantine, local superintendent of the Royal Mail Steam Packet Co. The Government road from Kingston to Port Antonio has not been damaged to any great extent and special trains are taking homeless people to Port Antonio for shelter. Several vessels also are engaged in taking people to the same port.

The Constant Springs Hotel, a spacious building in St. Andrews, six miles from here, was destroyed, mainly by fire. Many distinguished persons were stopping there, including all the delegates to the West Indian Agricultural Conference, which was to have held its sessions at Kingston; Sir Alfred Jones, president of the Liverpool Chamber of Commerce, and a large party of distinguished persons who arrived here recently from England on the steamer Port Kingston in order to study the agricultural conditions of the island. This party includes many British peers and members of Parliament. The hotel Titchfield is said to be the only prominent hotel in Jamaica which has not sustained injuries.

So far as known no prominent Americans have been killed or injured.

1000 KILLED, CONSUL WIRES POST-DISPATCH.

In reply to a cablegram from the Post-Dispatch and New York World, requesting an accurate account of conditions prevailing in Kingston following Monday's visitation of earthquake and fire, Christopher Payne, United States Consul at St. Thomas, Danish West Indies, the only point of any importance near Kingston that could be reached by wire, cabled as follows:

"ST. THOMAS, Jan. 16.

"To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

"One thousand persons reported killed. Loss of property, two million pounds ($10,000,000). Ninety thousand homeless. All people warned away from Kingston. Stench is awful. No feed for animals. Money useless, as banks are burned. Vaults, however, are supposed to be safe.

"The misery is indescribable. Rich and poor are homeless. Provisions urgently needed. Impossible to say where anybody is to be found. Shock which laid Kingston in ruins occurred about 3:40 p. m. on the 14th. Sir James Ferguson killed. Loss of life very great; number not yet known. Dead buried under smouldering ruins. Mercantile community suffered most, warehouses falling on them. Many professional men dead or injured. Negroes looting. Famine is imminent, as shops are destroyed. All buildings around Kingston in ruins, few being safe to live in. Governor and party safe. Reported extinct volcano in Portland showing signs of activity not verified. No news from other parts of the island yet. Communication difficult.

LOBBYISTS FILL CAPITAL

Former Legislators Appear to Discuss Merits of Railway Bills.

GRAND JURY MAY PROBE

Folk Expected to Call Judge's Attention to the Pass Evil.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFERSON CITY, Jan. 17.—A flagrant example of the lobby's boldness has been shown in the case of J. H. Van Brunt, president of the St. Joseph Street Railway Co. There is a bill before the General Assembly to limit railroad fares between St. Joseph and its suburbs to 5 cents. It has been presented at every session of the Legislature and Van Brunt has always fought it with much success.

When Van Brunt reached Jefferson City this morning the first thing he did was to send for several members of the House Municipal Corporations Committee. The committeemen responded promptly and Van Brunt invited them into the Madison House cafe, where several quarts of champagne were uncorked.

"Now," said Van Brunt, when his legislative friends began to show signs of mellow humor, "I want you to beat that 5-cent fare bill." To the clinking of glasses everybody sang "Van Brunt's a jolly good fellow."

The city is overrun with lobbyists. It begins to look as though every important interest in the State has decided to have a representative at Jefferson City to tell he legislaors how they should legislate.

Not within the memory of the oldest resident have so many scheming politicians gathered in the capital for the purpose of influencing legislation. If Gov. Folk has a rule limiting the stay of lobbyists to 30 hours, it evidently has become a dead letter. The lobbyists laugh at the Governor's threats to punish them if they attempt to interfere with the deliberations of the General Assembly. They say he cannot pass his anti-lobby bill, because many well-meaning members, whose legislative records are stainless, regard as impractical a law that seeks to prevent the paid agent of any corporation from representing his employers here during the session.

The railroad lobby is, of course, the most powerful influence operating to strangle legislation to its interests. It is reported about the hotels that the railroads are offering annual instead of trip passes to those who are willing to work for them. At the same time rumors are current that Gov. Folk intends to take up the so-called pass evil with Circuit Judge Martin when the Cole County Grand Jury meets here Jan. 21.

Despite the denials of the railroad representatives, it is said Gov. Folk is convinced that transportation is being issued gratis to those who apply for it, or intimate that they would not refuse it. It is known that the Governor is waiting for the psychological moment before firing a broadside into the lobby, but just how far he will go in this direction none of his advisers will venture to predict.

Wanted Pay of $2000.

A well-known politician, who arrived here a few days ago, thought "pickings" were so fine that he wrote to the Wholesale Liquor Dealers' Protective Association of Missouri agreeing to protect the liquor interests in consideration of the sum of $2000.

Following are some of the more conspicuous railroad agents in Jefferson City today:

L. F. Parker, general attorney of the St. Louis & San Francisco Railroad; former Lieutenant-Governor Bolte, representing the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific; H. D. Wilson of Mexico, attorney of the Chicago & Alton; former Representative Newlin Conklin of Carroll County, for the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe.; former State Senator Buel Matthews of St. Louis County, for the Burlington; John (Fire Alarm) Flanigan of Carthage, for the Missouri, Kansas & Texas and Missouri Pacific; and last, but not least, Col. William H. Phelps, Martin L. Clardy and James M. Seibert, for the Gould railroad companies.

At a joint meeting of the railroad committees of the House and Senate tonight a joint meeting will be determined upon for consideration of a 2-cent fare bill. At a meeting of the House committee late Wednesday Col. Phelps asked that a certain date be set, at which time representatives of the railroads could be heard on the various measures. He mentioned the 2-cent fare bill and the maximum freight rate bill as the more important measures before the Legislature. The House committee favors next Wednesday night for a public hearing on railroad measures, and it is probable a joint committee meeting will be held at that time.

Telephone companies have intrusted their interests to Max Sebree of Kansas City. He has equipped his apartments at the Madison House with long distance telephone service to St. Louis and Kansas City. He is directly in the employ of the Missouri and Kansas Telephone Co.

Institutions Represented.

In addition to the corporation lobby, State institutions at Fulton, Marshal and Columbia have sent representatives here to demand increased appropriations from the Legislature.

During the past few days practically the entire force of the St. Louis Beer Inspector's office, including Cy Carr, Earl Evans, son of Judge Evans, chairman of the Democratic State Committee; Charley Gill and others, have been here, but for what purpose has not yet been made clear.

John Rhodes, State Game and Fish Warden, spent four days in Jefferson City, but hurried away after Representative Hill of Butler County introduced a resolution suggesting that Rhodes' salary be cut to 30 cents a year.

A score of "X" senators and representatives are quietly circulating among the members, apparently in behalf of special interests.

A stranger walked into the Madison House today, and, observing Col. Phelps and Jim Seibert of the Missouri Pacific forces in conversation, asked who they were. The man to whom he addressed the question supplied the information.

"What are they doing here?" asked the other.

"Don't know, but I understand they are attending the Supreme Court."

It appears the Supreme Court has adjourned for a week. Both Phelps and Seibert insist they came up on a fishing expedition.

The Vandiver revelations in Wednesday's Post-Dispatch created a sensation among the up-State politicians now in Jefferson City. Gov. Folk's friends feel particularly alarmed over the disclosures that have been made concerning the State Insurance Superintendent's activity in the Democratic campaign of 1904.

Mr. Vandiver's friends are saying that he did not receive any money from Murray Carleton or Alexander G. Cochran, but that the sum of $4500, collected from both, was paid to E. S. Lewis, treasurer of the Business Men's Committee that urged the nomination of Folk for Governor. Nelson W. McLeod of St. Louis was chairman of that committee.

SUN MISSING FOR FOUR DAYS

Clouds Are Out After the January Record for Bad Weather.

Weather forecast: Cloudy, with light rain or snow Thursday night or Friday. Somewhat colder Thursday night. Northerly winds, changing to easterly. Minimum temperature Thursday night will be about 28 degrees.

"The sun disappeared from St. Louis at 2:21 p. m. January 13. It has been lost to sight for four entire days," said Forecaster Bowie to a Post-Dispatch reporter Thursday.

In fact, the coy sun seems about to equal, if not excel, its worst behavior on record for January. In January, 1899, the sun hid behind clouds for 15 out of the 31 days in the month. So far this month there have been been 12 shineless days out of 17. If the sun is missing three more days the record will be broken and chances seem good for the establishment of a new record.

Moreover, the bad weather has not confined itself to January. December has also been exceptionally rainy. Here is the Weather Bureau's record of clear days, as well as the "normal;" that is, the weather St. Louis ought from an experience of 36 years to expect:

	Clear days.	Normal.
December	4	8
January	3	9

"In the last three days," says Forecaster Bowie, "St. Louis has had a precipitation of 3.68 inches. This three-day precipitation is greater than that which should fall during the entire month. The normal precipitation for the month is 2.27 inches."

WIDOW OF TOWNLEY IS CHIEF WITNESS

The case of Verner Townley, charged with murder in the second degree for shooting and killing his brother, Alfred N. Townley, in the Union Station, Aug. 4, was continued Thursday until Feb. 5, owing to the absence of Fred De Fries, one of the eyewitnesses to a quarrel preceding the shooting.

Another witness to the shooting, E. V. Cameron, who saw the fight before the tragedy, was in court, but both the attorneys for the defense and the State admitted that there was a discrepancy in the statements of the two, Cameron saying that he did not think Alfred Townley had struck his brother with sufficient force to fell him, while De Fries is said to be positive Verner was knocked down.

Carrying her 4-months-old baby in her arms and with Noble, her 3-year-old son, holding her hand, Mrs. Sarah Townley, widow of the slain man, entered the courtroom at 9:30 a. m. She will be the principal witness for the State. She took a seat outside of the rail and waited patiently, while little Noble ran about the room, making friends. The baby, who has not been named, lay in her arms surveying the courtroom with a solemn stare.

The killing of Noble Townley followed a series of quarrels between the brothers over division of property. While visiting in St. Louis Mr. and Mrs. Noble Townley stopped at the home of Verner Townley, in Windsor place. According to Mrs. Noble Townley, their stay at her brother-in-law's home was made unpleasant by complaints against her husband.

On the morning of the day on which the killing occurred Mr. and Mrs. Noble Townley and Verner Townley were eating breakfast in a restaurant on Vandeventer avenue. A quarrel arose between the brothers and Noble Townley left the place with his wife. That afternoon they went to his brother's home, packed their belongings and prepared to leave St. Louis.

DYER ADMITS SHORTAGE AND FALSE ENTRIES

Subtreasury Teller Says He Does Not Know What Became of $61,500.

TELLS OF DISSIPATION

Cross-Examination Develops Revelry of Night Before Discovery.

SPOKE TO BANK RUNNERS

Tells Lehmann He Thought They Could Tell Him if Bank Had Erred.

In a most searching and dramatic cross-examination David P. Dyer Jr., former receiving teller in the Subtreasury, on trial in the United States District Court for the embezzlement of $61,500, was forced to admit on the witness stand Thursday that he was short in his cash account; that he borrowed from Paying Teller Ferguson to make his accounts balance; that he falsified entries in his books to avoid detection; that he drank, at times to excess; that on the night of Oct. 4, the day before the shortage was discovered, he visited the "Bad Lands" and entered houses there; and that he made no special effort to discover how the shortage might have occurred.

The cross-examination was conducted by Special Prosecutor Frederick W. Lehmann. It began within five minutes after Dyer had taken the stand as a witness in his own behalf and had not been concluded when the court took a recess at 1:40. Attorney and witness were keyed to a high pitch, and the large audience showed the most eager interest.

At times the counsel for the defendant made sarcastic objection, and there would follow lively tilts between the lawyers. Once or twice Dyer answered Lehmann in angry tones.

Dyer's lawyers opened the gates wide for Lehmann when they asked him on direct examination if at any time he had ever appropriated to his own use any money belonging to the United States. He replied that he had not. Lehmann, because of this question, insisted that he had the right to inquire into the details of the alleged shortage, and was sustained by the court.

Mr. Lehmann showered questions upon the witness. Dyer insisted all the time that he had not taken the money, and that he could offer no explanation of what became of it.

Every eye in the crowded courtroom was upon Dyer when he took the stand. He answered the questions of the attorneys in quick snappy words.

"I received all the moneys for the Subtreasury, receipted for all the disbursements, received the deposits from all the national banks, redeemed the mutilated currency, paid pension checks and attended to numerous other things," he said in answer to Attorney Krum's questions.

"State to the jury if at any time between Aug. 13, 1906, and Oct. 5, 1906, you took moneys of the United States to the extent of $61,500, or any other extent, and appropriated these moneys to your own use."

"I did not," answered the defendant, emphatically.

Judge Krum then addressed the Court and stated that he had limited the inquiry to the period designated by the Court, but that he wished to make the inquiry broader, and asked for permission to do so. It was granted, and he proceeded.

"Did you at any time, in the course of your employment as second teller, or in the course of any other employment in any capacity in the Subtreasury, take moneys of the United States and appropriate them to your own use?"

"I did not."

Judge Krum then asked Dyer to describe the cage of the receiving teller, in which he worked at the time the shortage in his accounts was discovered. He described it as it had been described by other witnesses.

No Lock on His Cage.

"What kind of a door did it have?" asked his lawyer.

"It was a kind of sliding arrangement. It had no lock that would lock. There was a thing on it supposed to be a lock, but anyone could lift the latch and come inside. When I left the cage I always left it unlocked. There was no guard on the window from the outside to protect the money from persons who had business with the office."

Special Prosecutor Lehmann began the cross-examination by asking Dyer whether there had not been a shortage of $61,500 in his accounts. Judge Krum objected strenuously, declaring that there was no foundation laid by the direct examination that would warrant Lehmann in propounding such a question to the witness.

Admits His Shortage.

Judge Carland overruled Krum's objection to Lehmann's question whether there was a shortage in Dyer's accounts, saying that, as Dyer had been asked whether he had misappropriated funds and had replied in the negative, the question was proper.

"There was a shortage in my cage," Dyer replied when Lehmann had repeated the question.

"How much of a shortage?"

"Sixty-one thousand five hundred dollars."

"When did you discover it?"

"At the close of business Sept. 27."

"Did it not exist before that time?"

"No."

"Are you sure it did not exist before Sept. 27?"

"I am."

"Why are you sure?"

"Because I counted my cash the night before and it balanced."

"Was the total in your balance books?"

"Everything was at a perfect balance."

Left Money in Vault.

"What did you do with the money you had on hand Sept. 26?"

"I put it in my box and put the box in my locker in the Subtreasury vault."

"When you came to your office on the morning of Sept. 27, what did you find?"

"Everything apparently as I had left

MORGAN RETIRES; SON SUCCESSOR

Denies Rumors of Ill Health, but Admits Withdrawal From Active Business.

NEARLY 70, STILL ALERT

Considers Flotation of U. S. Steel Corporation His Greatest Achievement.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Jan. 17.—J. P. Morgan has not been at his office since the holidays. This fact has led to repeated rumors that he has been seriously ill, and yesterday it was used by speculators interested in breaking prices to spread the story throughout this country and Europe that he was the point of death.

While this was going on Mr. Morgan sat in the directors' room of the Grand Central Depot, smoking a big cigar. He was in the best of humor and health. When he heard of the rumor of his serious illness, he telephoned Jack Morgan, his son, to send prompt denial over the telegraph wires to representatives of the firm, and give the facts to the Wall street news agencies.

While Mr. Morgan's obituary will probably not be written for years, Wall street will see little of him in future, except when financial matters of great importance require his attention. Mr. Morgan has practically retired from business. The Post-Dispatch was informed upon high authority yesterday that the financier has placed his affairs in such shape that it will not be necessary for him in future to give personal attention to the business of his banking house. It will hereafter be in the hands of J. P. Morgan Jr., his son, who has since Jan. 1 been the practical head of both the New York and London houses. Mr. Morgan remains the senior partner, but he will be rather a consulting than an active member of the firm.

Mr. Morgan is nearly 70, but he is in vigorous health and is both mentally and physically as alert as he was 20 years ago, and has really not been an active factor in Wall street since the flotation of the United States Steel Corporation, which he regards as the crowning achievement of his career. The Northern Securities litigation forced him to give serious attention to Northern Pacific affairs, but since the dissolution of the Northern Securities Co. they no longer require his personal attention. What stocks he has are of an investment character entirely.

The death of Samuel Spencer was a deep personal loss to Mr. Morgan and had a great influence in hastening his retirement from active affairs, according to one of his friends yesterday.

At the office of J. P. Morgan & Co. it was said that Mr. Morgan has since the holidays transacted all of his business in his library, joining his Madison avenue home.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 17.—To save the naval service the disgrace of a court-martial, which would bring to light many unsavory facts, Paymaster George Martin Lukesh, U. S. ARM WOMEN, PLAN OF THIS JUSTICE

Father of Miss Reynolds, Whom Purse-Snatcher Attacked, Makes Suggestion.

SHE FOUGHT VALIANTLY

Threw Umbrella at Mulatto Who Robbed Her Near the Union Station.

Justice Reynolds of Brentwood, St. Louis County, whose daughter, Miss Anna Reynolds, was robbed of her purse Wednesday night by a negro at Eighteenth and Pine streets, despite her valiant resistance, says women ought to be permitted to carry weapons to defend themselves against such assaults.

Miss Reynolds is employed as a stenographer by a company in the Chemical Building, and rides to and from town on the Missouri Pacific accommodation on the Creve Coeur division. She was on her way to the Union Station Wednesday evening when the negro attacked her.

Walking south on the east side of Eighteenth street she passed two negroes standing on the corner of Pine street. Intending to avoid them, she went across to the west side of Eighteenth street. As she reached the mouth of the alley midway between Pine and Chestnut streets the negro—a mulatto—crept upon her from behind and seized a small satchel in which she carried her purse.

Miss Reynolds had the handle on her wrist. The negro's first effort to grab it was fruitless. Turning, Miss Reynolds held to the satchel with both hands, at the same time screaming loudly. The negro's superior strength enabled him to twist the satchel from her grip and he dashed west through the alley.

Miss Reynolds followed him 20 feet and attempted to strike him with her umbrella. He was beyond her reach and she had to content herself with throwing it after him.

A crowd gathered in response to Miss Reynolds' cries. In it was a policeman, to whom the young woman reported the robbery. Search of the neighborhood revealed no traces of the purse-snatcher.

In the purse was a $1 bill, a gold ring valued at $5 and a commutation ticket of 10 coupons on the Missouri Pacific.

VESSELS REACH CITY; RELIEF WORK BEGINS.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—A wireless message to the Navy Department from Rear Admiral Evans at Guanatanamo states that the battleships Missouri and Indiana will arrive at Jamaica today. The Whipple, having aboard Divisional Commander Admiral C. H. Davis, with a corps of surgeons and medical supplies, already has arrived at Kingston.

Owing to an error in deciphering the wireless message from Guanatanamo, Cuba, yesterday, it was made to appear that Admiral Evans personally had gone to Kingston.

The American National Red Cross will extend immediate help to the earthquake sufferers in Jamaica. Cleveland Dodge, head of the New York State organization, has been authorized to purchase $5000 worth of supplies to be sent to Kingston by the first steamer.

Had Right to Open Letter.

In Justice Jacoby's court at Kirkwood Thursday R. W. Albrecht, former superintendent of the Lutheran Orphans' Home at Des Peres, Mo., was acquitted of a charge brought against him by Thomas Davis, an employe at the home. It was alleged that Albrecht opened a letter written by a girl in the home and addressed to Davis. The dismissal of the case was urged by Prosecuting Attorney Joneston, on the ground that the girl was not of age, and Albrecht, as her legal guardian, had a right to open the letter.

LAWYER ADMITS $6600 FORGERY; WILL PLEAD GUILTY

Horace E. Hand, Attorney for the Frisco System, Is Arrested at His Home in Kirkwood and Brought to St. Louis by Two Detectives.

MRS. A. J. CHENIER IS ALSO QUESTIONED

She Is Said to Have Cashed $6000 Draft With Which Hand Was Connected and Which Was Turned Down by the Chicago Bank on Which Drawn.

To charges of forgery, drawn against him Thursday afternoon, Horace E. Hand, an attorney for the Frisco System, said he would plead guilty and accept a sentence of five years in the Penitentiary. Hand is charged with having forged checks to the amount of $6600. He was arrested Wednesday night.

Hand admitted forging of indorsements to two checks for amounts aggregating $6,600 issued by the law department of the railway and of transferring the proceeds to his own account. He also confessed forging a name to a receipt for one of the checks.

While private secretary to Judge Parker, Hand had charge of the correspondence of the law department of the railway, which settled the damage suits brought against the road. It is charged in one information that last October he appropriated a check for $2660 drawn on the State National Bank and payable to Attorney James Booth on a judgment in favor of a client who had sued the Frisco. Hand is accused of having forged Booth's indorsement anddeposited the check with the Mercantile Trust Co to his own account.

Hand is also charged with doing the same with a check for $4000, payable to C. A. Newton, now an Assistant Circuit Attorney of St. Louis.

Two years ago, at Kansas City, Newton represented Mrs. Mary King of Springfield, Mo., in a suit for damages against the Frisco for the death of her husband. The suit was for $5000, judgment for $4500 being returned. While the case was pending on an appeal, a settlement was effected and the law department mailed Newton a check for $4000 in favor of his client. Newton says he never received the check and was greatly surprised Thursday when called into Mr. Roskopf's office and told that it had been mailed to him.

Frisco Has a Receipt.

The Frisco has a receipt to which Newton's name is signed. Hand is charged with forging it and this constitutes the third information issued against him.

George Wilson, secretary of the Mercantile Trust Co., Judge Klein and Judge Parker were present in Mr. Rosskopf's office when the evidence on which the informations were drawn up was given.

The Circuit Attorney's office is also investigating a charge preferred by the officials of the Missouri-Lincoln Trust Co. in relation to a bogus $6000 draft, said to have been cashed by Mrs. Chenier, secretary of the Union Automobile Co., in which Hand is also said to be connected.

This draft was drawn on the Third Continental Bank of Chicago and was cashed the last of the year by Mrs. Chenier, according to her statement to Assistant Circuit Attorney Rosskopf. She says she went to the Missouri-Lincoln Trust Co. with the draft, which was made payable to a man named Hurlburt, a former official of the automobile company. She said $4500 of the amount represented Hurlburt's commission on stock sold by him and Mrs. Chenier, while $1500 was her share in the deal.

Draft Is Turned Down.

Mrs. Chenier stated that Hurlburt was not known at the bank and as she had done all the banking for the firm she cashed the draft in order to obtain her commission. To do this she signed her own name. Later the Chicago bank refused to honor the draft and it was returned.

Mrs. Chenier was greatly distressed while giving her testimony. She became hysterical and was with difficulty calmed sufficiently to give an account of the transaction. Hand's connection with the draft transaction is being investigated.

Both Hulburt and Mrs. Chenier were injured innocents in the transaction.

By order of the Circuit Attorney's office, tellers of the various banks and trust companies were summoned. They will be asked to identify the signatures and the persons who cashed the various papers.

The assistant prosecuting attorneys were much impressed with the statement of Mrs. Chenier and are inclined to the belief that she was innocent of any criminal intent in the disposition of the draft.

Hand was arrested Wednesday night at 9 o'clock at his home in Kirkwood by two detectives and brought to the Four Courts. The arrest was made at the request of Circuit Attorney Sager. Attorney George Webster, who represented Hand, was in waiting at the Four Courts upon his arrival, and Hand was released on a $200 common law bond.

The party went to the office of Assistant Circuit Attorney Johnson, where they were joined by Judge Selden Spencer and L. F. Parker, general counsel for the Frisco system. Hand, who is charged with forgery, was brought in, accompanied by his attorney. Shortly after detectives brought in Mrs. Chenier.

After a hurried conversation in undertones, the whole party proceeded to the office of Assistant Circuit Attorney Rosskopf.

Hand is 44 years old and married. The Circuit Attorney's assistants are expediting the gathering of evidence in order to place it before the grand jury with the utmost dispatch.

Mrs. Chenier, who was Mrs. Marie S. Schuerman of 4323 Maryland avenue, became the bride of A. J. Chenier, manager of the Cella Commission Co., at 11 p. m., Saturday last, after an auto ride with Mr. Chenier.

The then Mrs. Schuerman lived with her mother, Mrs. Margaret Dudley. Her husband died several years ago. Mr. Chenier, who knew Mrs. Schuerman when a girl at school, always admired her and when Schuerman won her he remained a bachelor. After his death their friendship continued and she was his companion in many automobile rides.

Saturday night, while they were out riding, he proposed and when she consented he would have no delay. Mr. Chenier called up former Justice "Bobby" Carroll over the telephone, who directed them to Recorder Joy at the Planters Hotel. Mr. Joy consented to go to the City Hall, the license was issued and Justice Reichmann, who was summoned by telephone, performed the ceremony.

A wedding supper followed at the Planters and the couple then drove to the home of relatives and notified them of the marriage. Mr. Chenier lives with his mother, Mrs. Henry McLean, and sister, Mrs. O. F. Overbeck, at 834 North Euclid avenue.

REPUBLICANS STOP WAR ON VANDIVER

Fearing for Methudy's Seat, They Won't Ask Campaign Inquiry.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Jan. 17.—Frightened by the threat of the Democrats to unseat Senator Methudy if they persisted in their war on the administration, the Republican Senators this afternoon abandoned the fight on State Insurance Commissioner Vandiver.

Mr. Vandiver's name was submitted for confirmation at an executive session of the Senate at 2 p. m. As the anti-Folk senators could not wage the fight without the assistance of the Republicans, it has been decided not to present the resolution calling for an explanation from Mr. Vandiver of the contributions said to have been received by him from public service corporations in the compaign of 1904.

The action of the Republicans in thus backing down from an exposure of Democratic campaign methods is regarded as a distinct triumph for Gov. Folk.

Senator Methudy's seat is being contested by John Sartorius, Democrat, who made the race against him in the Third senatorial district of St. Louis.

As the Republicans have promised to "be good," Mr. Methudy is now assured of retaining his senatorial position.

HEAVY COST IN GAS BILL.

Inspection Measure Like One Defeated in 1905.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Jan. 17.—The gas inspection bill, introduced by Senator Bauman, providing for an inspection three times a year of every gas meter in St. Louis, the cost of such inspection to be charged against the gas company, is similar in its provisions to the Nelson bill, which the Legislature defeated by an overwhelming vote two years ago.

At the 1903 session a bill of the same purport was presented by Senator "Johnnie" Collins of St. Louis. It is estimated that the proposed law would cost the Laclede Gas Light Co. of St. Louis $300,000 a year. The bill provides for the appointment of a gas inspector by the Mayor, subject to approval of the City Council, with right to appoint as many deputies as may be necessary.

HE PLAYED DETECTIVE.

Num Coory Does Clever Work in Recovering Coat.

Num Coory of 316 Poplar street, displayed the qualities of a clever detective when he saw what appeared to him to be his rubber coat on the back of another man Wednesday afternoon. Coory met Farris Saffa, of 717 South Third street, at Fourth and Poplar streets. He pretended to admire the coat and asked Saffa where he bought it. Saffa said he got the coat at a bargain from Joseph Romano, of 517 South Broadway.

Coory then hunted a policeman and escorted him to the home of Romano. There they found a rubber hat which Coory also identified as his property. Romano was found later, and when questioned by the policeman admitted that he had stolen the rubber coat and hat from a stable at 3701 Easton avenue where Coory is employed. Romano was locked up. Saffa was later found at his home. Coory having made a careful mental note of the address he had given him and the rubber coat was recovered. Coat and hat will be used as evidence against Romano, and Saffa will be a witness for the State.

DYER ADMITS SHORTAGE, BUT DENIES GUILT

it the night before."

"Was everything in the box that you had put there the night before?"

"It was supposed to be. There was no verification customary in the morning. It was not necessarily there."

"Was not your balance usually over $61,500?"

"It was."

Might Not Have Noticed.

"Couldn't you have told the difference if there was so much money missing?"

"Not necessarily."

"The bulk of what you put away the night before was in notes of small denomination, was it not?"

"I cannot say positively."

"There were not many gold notes, were there?"

"I can't tell, necessarily" ——

"Did you carry much money in gold notes?"

"Sometimes we had $2,000,000 in $10,000 notes."

"But it don't take very many $10,000 notes to make up $2,000,000, does it?"

"No, not very many."

"You didn't handle many $10,000 notes every day, did you?"

"Comparatively few."

"Not more than six or seven?"

"I have handled more."

Had Dealings With Banks.

"When you first discovered the shortage on Sept. 27, Mr. Dyer, what were you doing?"

"I was pursuing the regular course of my business duties as second teller in the Subtreasury."

"With whom did you transact business on Sept. 27?"

"With the banks, among others."

"With what banks?"

"I don't know just what banks, probably all of them except the National Bank of Commerce, as that was "redemption day" and we were redeeming mutilated currency. Because of the great bulk of business done with the Bank of Commerce we had set aside Tuesday as their day, and this was Thursday and the day set for the other banks."

"This mutilated money was sorted and strapped and the amount on the strap?"

"It was supposed to be marked."

Not Always Marked.

"What do you mean by 'supposed to be'?"

"I had often commented that the banks were not marking their money."

"Bills of small denomination were most circulated, were they not?"

"Yes."

"You didn't get any mutilated $10,000 gold notes to redeem, did you?"

"No."

"Mostly ones, twos, fives, tens and twenties?"

"And fifties and one hundreds."

Counted by Straps.

"It would take a large number of bills of small denomination to make $61,500, wouldn't it?"

"Yes."

"How did you count up your money at the close of the day?"

"By the amounts on the straps."

"The failure to count and verify the amounts on the straps had no effect on your shortage, as you, too, had gone by the straps, did it?"

"It did not."

Here Lehmann grew eloquent, his voice trembling.

Asked Bank "Runners."

"To what did you attribute the shortage, Mr. Dyer?"

An objection by Dyer's attorney's was overruled.

"I didn't attribute it to anything. I couldn't account for it."

"Did you believe some bank had made a mistake?"

"I thought maybe it occurred that way, but didn't know."

"What means did you employ to ascertain if such was the case?"

"I asked the bank runners, who brought mutilated money for redemption, whether their banks balanced."

"Who were they?"

"George Sims of the Third National, a man named Schott of the Mechanics-American and several others whose names I don't know."

"When did you ask these runners about their banks' balance?"

"The next morning and several times afterward. They all said everything was all right, and no bank was 'over.'"

"You stopped there?"

"Yes, sir."

"You never mentioned the shortage to anyone?"

"I did not."

"You had been in the office since 1894 and knew Ferguson, Johnson, Warren and others and didn't tell them?"

"I did not."

"You didn't suspect any one in the subtreasury?"

"I did not."

"You didn't tell Mr. Akins?"

"I did not."

Didn't Tell Father.

"You didn't tell anybody and kept the matter a profound secret. Your father's office was on the floor above you, he was the prosecuting official of the Government, your brother, assistant to your father, was in his office and you didn't confide in them? You were on the most confidential terms with them, were you not?"

"I was supposed to be."

"You just asked some messenger boys?"

"Yes, sir. And kept looking for my mistake."

"You didn't go back of Sept. 27 to look for it?"

"I went over the figures on the 27th a great many times."

Dyer said he went home from the office Sept. 28. He went to church Sunday, Sept. 29 and spent the rest of the day with his family.

"All that time you had no idea of how the shortage occurred?"

"I did not; I knew it might have occurred in any one of different ways."

Had to Balance Books.

In response to a question Dyer said he did not remember Akins asking him Sept. 27 at the close of business whether or not his accounts balanced. He said that Akins had only asked him once or twice about his balance during the whole time he was receiving teller under Akins to the best of his recollection. He said Akins was in the habit of asking the bookkeeper, but didn't make it a rule to ask him. Akins testified Wednesday that he asked Dyer Sept. 27 whether his books balanced, and received an affirmative reply.

"That is right."

"You had made the books balance by entries that were not true?"

"I won't say that."

"Did you have the amount on hand Sept. 27?"

"I had to make the books balance."

At times Lehmann's cross-examination was dramatic as well as vigorous. With the receiving teller's daily settlement book in his hand, he inquired carefully into every entry made Sept. 27, the day Dyer claimed he discovered his shortage.

Admits False Entry.

Dyer said he made every entry in the book with the exception of the general treasury account of $248,234.20 before he discovered the shortage.

"How did you make your books balance?" asked Mr. Lehmann.

"I added $61,500 to my cash account and my books then balanced."

Lehmann advanced close to the witness chair and held out the daily settlement book.

"You have said, Mr. Dyer, that you made every entry in this book except one before you found the shortage. Now show me what item you changed, what you rubbed out, when you found this shortage."

"You were wrong, Mr. Lehmann. That book does not show it. It appears on my cash account book."

"You carried the account under the head of gold certificates because it was easier to carry this deficit that way?"

"Yes."

"And you counted up and deliberately added this false entry to your gold certificate entry?"

Lehmann asked Dyer what he had done to try to discover the discrepancy, and he said he examined his accounts, but was not able to determine how the mistake had been made. He was asked whether he had paid out any $10,000 gold certificates in redeeming mutilated currency. The witness could not recall that he had.

Couldn't Recall Notes.

"Were not results of that day fixed on your mind as the result of that shortage?"

"Yes."

"Can't you recall then whether you paid out any $10,000 gold notes to any bank?"

"It was a daily occurrence."

"What bank did you ever pay out a $10,000 gold note to in redemption of its mutilated currency?"

"I can't tell that, but I did it almost every day."

After questioning Dyer closely regarding his accounts, Lehmann asked Dyer what he had done on the evening of Oct. 4.

Dyer admitted that he went to several barrooms then to Hotel Jefferson and then hired a hack and drove to the "Bad Lands," where he visited a house.

"Did you go to May Seymour's?" asked Lehmann.

"I don't remember."

"You went to Morgan & Massie's?"

"Yes."

"And that's a house of bad repute?"

"Yes."

"Are you in the habit of going to such places?"

"No; I am not."

"Were you looking for a shortage that night?"

"Not while I was on the streets."

Meant to Wait Awhile.

"Why did you borrow the $61,500 from Ferguson?"

"Because I didn't want Johnson to know I was short."

"Why did you not report this shortage?"

"Because I thought it would turn up."

"When did you intend to report it?"

"I intended to wait a reasonable time and then tell about."

"How long a time did you intend to wait?"

"I had fixed no time in my mind."

"You knew if a thief had stolen it he wouldn't return it?"

"I knew that."

"Your only hope, then, was that some error of bookkeeping would show how the shortage occurred?"

"Yes."

"And you knew that the longer the matter went on the harder it would be to discover the error?"

"I knew that."

"When you returned this $61,500 you borrowed from Ferguson, you went into his cage when he was absent, didn't you?"

"Yes; I went in there to return the money and didn't want Johnson to see me."

How He Was Found Out.

Dyer gave his version of how Johnson discovered that he was short. He said Major Holloway from Jefferson Barracks was at his cage in connection with the making up of his payrolls.

"Major Holloway said he sent up his payroll from Jefferson Barracks the night before. He said he didn't have time to make it up, as he wanted to catch a train, and asked me to do it for him.

"I went into Ferguson's cage to look for the payroll. Johnson was standing at the door and went in with me.

"He saw the gold notes lying in the basket where I placed them after I had used them to balance my cash.

"As we came out, Johnson said to me:

"'Dave, don't add anything to your cash; I'm going to count you up again.'

"I said 'all right.' I went to my father's office and told him they were counting me up and would find me short $61,500.

Told Father Then.

"After telling my father, I went back to the cage.

"Ferguson and Johnson were in the cage. 'What did you find?' I said.

"Ferguson said, 'You are short, Dave.' I said, 'What do you make it?' Johnson said he made it between $60,000 and $61,000. I said, 'You are wrong; it's $61,500.'

"Nothing more was done then, except that Johnson asked me when the shortage occurred and I told him Thursday, Sept. 27.

"Did Johnson ask you why you borrowed the $61,500 from Ferguson?"

"I think he asked me. I know I told somebody, probably Mr. Akins, that I was nervous the day the shortage was found, because I had done something the night before that I had not done for a long time—that was, that I had taken a drink too much. I was nervous and didn't want the shortage to become known that day."

"Did you make any suggestion to Mr. Akins as to what had become of the money?"

"I don't remember all that I said to Mr. Akins. I had a conversation of three hours with him. My recollection is that I told him I didn't know what had become of the money."

Tells of Talk With Wilkie.

Lehmann then took up the interview Chief Wilkie of the Secret Service had with the witness. Dyer said he saw Wilkie, but did not know at first that Wilkie was looking into the shortage.

"Chief Wilkie told me he was here attending the bankers' convention," he said.

Lehmann asked Dyer to give in detail the conversation he had with Wilkie. Judge Krum objected, but was overruled. Dyer repeated the conversation almost as it was given Wednesday by Wilkie when he was on the stand.

"Your memory is better in regard to this conversation than on the events of Sept. 27?"

"Yes; my talk with Mr. Wilkie was mostly in reference to matters other than the shortage. That took up a very few minutes."

Others in Dyer's Cage.

Fred J. Maginn, a bookkeeper in the subtreasury, the first witness for the defense, testified that he never knew Dyer's cage to be locked, and often saw other persons in Dyer's cage when the latter was not there.

Maginn said he had occasion to go into Dyer's cage daily for memoranda when Dyer was not in his cage, but was near at hand. He said he would ask Dyer for a memorandum of some kind and Dyer would say, "Go in and get it." Sometimes, the witness said, there was money in plain view in the cage.

William H. Shackelford, bookkeeper in the subtreasury, testified that he had gone into the receiving teller's cage when Dyer was not there to get papers, but never without calling the attention of other persons employed there to the fact.

On the occasion that he visited the cage, it was always unlocked. Shackelford said that he had seen other persons in the cage, both when Dyer was there and when he was absent. On one occasion he recalled seeing the assorting teller carrying mutilated currency by the armful out of the cage.

In the cross-examination of William E. Darrer, a janitor in the subtreasury, Attorney Lehmann endeavored to bring out facts concerning the witness' knowledge of Dyer's private life, after the defense had attempted to prove by the witness that Dyer was a man of good reputation in the community. Darrer was put on as a witness for the defense and testified that in the course of his duties as janitor he had seen other persons than Dyer enter the cage of the receiving teller.

Compton Club Incident.

He was then asked by Attorney Krum if he knew what the reputation of Dyer was among his associates. Darrer said that Dyer's reputation was good among the employes in the office of the subtreasury. He did not know with whom he associated outside of working hours.

"Did you ever hear about Dyer going to the Compton Club with some women and being robbed of a large sum of money?" asked Lehmann.

Before the witness could answer, Judge Krum was on his feet, making objection. He declared that it was improper for the Government's counsel to ask any such question, and that Lehmann knew it was improper. To this Lehmann retorted hotly by saying that he was responsible to the Court for his conduct and not to Judge Krum.

Lehmann contended that it was proper for him to inquire into the habits of the defendant, inasmuch as the defense had endeavored to show by the witness that Dyer was a man of good character.

Mr. Lehmann declared that the question of morality had a direct bearing on the question of character; that if a man was weak in one respect as to his character, he might be in another.

Judge Krum asserted that morality was not a necessary adjunct to a man's character so far as honesty was concerned, and added that the prosecution was endeavoring to get in testimony in a secondary manner that had been excluded by the Court as improper in a direct way.

Judge Carland, after hearing the heated discussions of the attorneys, ruled that the question was improper. Darrer was then excused from further examination, and the defendant was called as a witness for himself.

Misdemeanor Charged.

Dyer is being prosecuted by the Government for a misdemeanor, because under the Federal statutes, unless so specified in the statute itself, only high crimes, such as treason or particularly infamous crimes against the Government, amount to felonies. The Federal statutes do not define embezzlement as a felony, hence it amounts only to a misdemeanor. There is not the same distinction drawn between misdemeanors and felonies under the Federal laws as under the State laws. The punishment prescribed for a misdemeanor such as Dyer is charged with is punishable by imprisonment in the Penitentiary from six months to ten years and a fine equal to the amount of the embezzlement.

Section 5490 of the Federal Statutes, under which Dyer is being prosecuted, provides that any public officer who fails to safely keep funds entrusted to his care is guilty of embezzlement, and may be punished by imprisonment from six months to ten years, and by a fine equal to the amount of the money embezzled.

Lehmann contends that, under this section of the statute, all the Government has to show to establish a case against the defendant is to prove that he received the money and that he failed to account for it. This, he says, has been done by the testimony offered by the Government. It is not necessary to show how or where it might have been spent, or when or how it was taken. It has been shown to have been received and not returned, which is sufficient, according to Lehmann, to make the case of embezzlement.

In all criminal cases tried in the Federal courts the punishment is fixed by the trial judge. The function of the jury is merely to determine the guilt or the innocence of the accused.

Embezzlement is punishable by a fine up to the amount of the embezzlement or by imprisonment up to 10 years or by both forms in any degree up to the maximum.

FINED $50 FOR STRIKING WOMAN

Malavanchek Attacked Rabbi's Wife in Front of Her Home.

QUARREL OVER A PEW

Washington University Student Denies Blow—Bitterness in Testimony.

After a storm of testimony, which lasted for more than two hours, Judge Pollard of the Dayton Street Police Court Thursday imposed on Max Malavanchek, a junior at Washington University, a fine of $50 and costs for attacking Mrs. Regenia Lieberman, wife of Rabbi Abraham Lieberman of Sheerth S'Phard Synagogue, on the sidewalk in front of her home, 1521 Carr street, Jan. 7.

The trial was attended by a large number of witnesses and partisans of and Liebermans and Malavanchek, and at times their testimony betrayed deep feeling.

Mrs. Lieberman and her husband testified that they were on the way home from the synagogue when the attack was made. Mrs. Lieberman said Malavanchek struck her twice in the face and then ran into a house next door.

This was corroborated by Rabbi Lieberman and by Emil Jacobs of 1518 Carr street. Jacobs said he could not identify Malavanchek as the man who had struck Mrs. Lieberman, but had seen some one deal her a blow and then enter a house west of her home.

Malavanchek's defense was that he had attended the same lecture with Moses and Sam Gibstein and their sister Rose, and that when they entered the synagogue they thought they had a right to occupy any pew. He said when Lieberman and his wife appeared they quarreled with him for taking their seats.

After the lecture, Malavanchek said, he went to the home of Lesius Russia, at 1523 Carr street, after his wife. The Gibsteins, he said, were with him, and Sam remained on the sidewalk. He denied any blow. Gibstein testified that he saw Lieberman in front of his house. He said Lieberman called to his son, who appeared, and that he had difficulty in preventing them from attacking Malavanchek.

The testimony given by Malavanchek and Sam Gibstein was corroborated by Miss Gibstein and Moses Gibstein.

FORT WORTH, Tex., Jan. 17.—At the request of Senator Bailey's friends, Al Ray, chief of detectives of Fort Worth, is now his personal bodyguard and will accompany him until after the present storm in the campaign for the election of a United States Senator is over.

Ray was present when Bailey spoke at Austin the other day and remains close beside the Senator at all times. The story that Senator Bailey carries a revolver to protect himself has not been denied and the addition of a special body guard indicates the violent feeling the Senator has aroused in Texas during the present campaign.

Chief of Police Maddox of Fort Worth said today that the request for a guard for Senator Bailey came from his friends and that Ray was deputized for that work because of his admiration for the Senator.

TO FIGHT DIVORCE BECAUSE OF LOVE

Mrs. Anna Ward Young Tells of Her Plans With Regard to Litigation.

HOPES TO BE HAPPY

Husband Charges Her With Desertion and Disobedience of His Commands to Her.

Mrs. Anna Ward Young, whose husband, William H. Young Jr., is suing her for divorce in the Circuit Court, says she will file an answer denying the allegations in his bill and resist the suit because she still loves him, although they separated six weeks after their marriage.

Mrs. Young, a blond of diminutive figure, not yet 19 years of age, lives with her mother, Mrs. John Ryan, at 4125 Green Lea place. Her husband, who is employed in a downtown wholesale shoe house, resides with his father, William H. Young, a pioneer merchant of North St. Louis, at 4065 Lee avenue. He is 27 years old.

In his declaration, filed Wednesday, Young recites that they were married Nov. 29, 1905, and separated Jan. 10, 1906. He alleges desertion for more than a year.

According to the unusual wording of his bill, he "provided a good home for her commensurate with his means and wishes, but she was discontented. He asked her to go and live on a farm with him, free from outside influences, but the defendant, in settled contempt of the plaintiff and of his legal right to select a home and of all his other legal rights as a husband and head of the family, refused to go with him to any other home and in contempt of his right of control, abandoned him."

He also alleges that she associated with other men, married and single, at places of amusement and says she and her mother displayed a spirit of extreme vindictiveness to his family and were guilty of threats and acts of violence.

"I shall certainly resist my husband's suit to the last," spiritedly declared Mrs. Young to a Post-Dispatch reporter Thursday. "I love Will in spite of all our troubles and if only he was free from his mother's influence, and we could live in a home of our own, I believe we would be happy.

Met at Soda Fountain.

"Why, my husband's mother is the one who made the match. I made purchases in their store and she used to tell all about her son, what a fine fellow he was and wanted me to meet him. One summer night we met at a drug store while drinking soda. Will and I were fond of each other right away. He courted me six months and then a Rev. Dr. Luccock married us at his home, 4433 West Belle place. I was not 18, but my mother gave her consent.

"Will took me to his parents' home to live. He knew before he married me that I wasn't the best housekeeper in the world, but I was willing to learn. His mother put me at it right off. She is a fine housekeeper and thinks more of that than anything. She grew impatient because I didn't learn fast enough, I guess.

"When Will came home nights, he was told wherein I had fallen short and he would reproach me for not pleasing his folks better. I became ill shortly after the marriage and wasn't strong enough to perform the duties expected of me and I felt that they thought I was lazy and indifferent.

"Things got more and more disagreeable, so I wrote a note to my mother to come and take me home. She came and was ordered from the house. After I left my husband, I was very ill for six weeks. During the time I lived with him he wouldn't let me have any say about his wages.

COL. JAMES RAY IS KILLED.

Missouri Stockman Is Thrown In a Runaway.

RICHMOND, Mo., Jan. 17.—James C. Ray, owner of the Long Retreat, the oldest and largest jack farm in the United States, was thrown from his buggy and killed near Lawson yesterday when his horse ran away. Col. Ray was a wholesale buyer and importer from Spain as well as a shipper to foreign countries. He was noted for never having had a law suit over a trade. He had been out driving and was returning home when thrown from the buggy. He fell on a bridge and never regained consciousness.

POOL BETS GAMBLING.

Judge Pollard Rules That Way in Five Cases.

Fortifying himself by a decision of the Missouri Supreme Court, Judge Pollard of the Dayton Street Police Court, Thursday held that a game of Boston pool is a game of chance and fined each of seven defendants $5 and costs. They were Frank Keith of 4006 Bell avenue, Walter Berry of 3625 Laclede avenue, Edward Green of 3520 Laclede avenue, Herman M. Skiff of 705 South Broadway, Lester Gilmore of 4006 Bell avenue, Ernest Hart of 18 North Garrison avenue, and Frank Klumpp of 3431 Morgan street, who were arrested.

The case came before Judge Pollard on a change of venue from the City Hall Police Court, in which Judge Tracy has many times fined players of pool on the charge of gambling.

Judge Pollard took the case under advisement, and Thursday astonished Attorney Noland by unearthing the Supreme Court's decision which covered a game of pool on which wagers were laid, and which had been held to constitute gambling within the meaning of section 1454 of the city ordinances.

HITCHCOCK UPHELD BY HIS ATTORNEY

Precedents Cited for Land Withdrawal—Committee Opposes.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—In a report of the Select Committee of the Senate, which has been investigating the action of Secretary of the Interior Hitchcock, Secretary of Agriculture Wilson, in withdrawing from allotment 4,000,000 acres of land in Indian Territory for a forest reserve, it is declared that the "order of withdrawal was without authority of law." The report said that the agreement with the Indian tribes, which was approved in 1902, directed that the allotments be made as soon as practicable and that the committee did not believe the law could be set aside, impeded or modified, except by act of Congress. The committee recommended the immediate removal of all restrictions on the alienation of surplus lands, except the homesteads of those of Indian blood.

As to the question of oil and gas leases, the committee said that it was their opinion that the requirement of the department for a deposit of $5000 in bank as a guarantee should be modified or dispensed with where persons obtaining leases would make a showing of ability to carry out their contract. The committee approved of the general demand that leases should be transferable without the necessity of the consent of the Secretary of the Interior, providing the maximum limit of 4800 acres to a single holder was not exceeded.

The report of Secretary Hitchcock, together with the opinion of Judge Frank L. Campbell, Assistant Attorney-General for the Interior Department, which was called for by the committee last week, cites many precedents for the Secretary's withdrawal of land and gives 13 court decisions to sustain it, besides legislative enactments.

Julia V. Heinz, a daughter, recently filed a claim for $8833 for nursing her father and for household services. The daughter's claim will be considered by the Court Feb. 15. AS WOMAN, HE WON MAN'S HEART

Sex Masquerader Disappears Shortly Before Day Set for Marriage.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

LEAD, S. D., Jan. 17.—It has just come to light that a young man wearing female attire and passing himself off for a young woman, has been setting the pace for society belles in several of the smaller towns in Western South Dakota and breaking the hearts of young men. The secret of his sex was revealed only a few days before the day set for his marriage to Roscoe J. Billman, a well-to-do young man living near Spearfish.

The young man came into the Black Hills last summer disguised as a young woman and went under the name of Helen Manley. He was so skillfully disguised and in voice and manner impersonated a young woman so well that nobody suspected he was not a woman until recently, when he met with a slight accident which resulted in his sex becoming known. Immediately after his secret was revealed he disappeared and has not since been seen here.

He was an accomplished pianist, had talent for art, was versed in literature, was an excellent conversationalist, an uncommonly good entertainer and won admirers and recognition wherever he appeared. At Lead he made many conquests and had several proposals of marriage. Then, going north, he made more conquests at Spearfish and Bellefourche and set the pace for young women. He spent money freely and dressed in the latest mode. His real name was not revealed.

EPIDEMIC SWEEPS CHICAGO.

Health Board Unable to Cope With Situation.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, Jan. 17.—Contagious diseases have Chicago in a bad way. Epidemics of scarlet fever and diphtheria have made such headway that the local board of health, finding itself unable to cope with the situation, has called upon the state board of health for assistance.

In Evanston, Oak Park, Rogers Park and Englewood more than 400 cases have developed. The milk supply is blamed for a part of the trouble; the weather and living conditions are also blamed. Petitions are being circulated to close the public schools in the epidemic districts.

BILL SPAUGH NOT HANGED THURSDAY

Bell Company Establishes Circuit and Post-Dispatch Gives News.

The execution of Bill Spaugh, slayer of Sheriff Polk of Iron County, did not take place Thursday morning as ordered by the courts. Gov. Folk's reprieve reached Centerville, where the hanging was to take place, in time to prevent it. The first information of the respite was sent to Sheriff Fitts by a Post-Dispatch reporter.

Gov. Folk granted a respite until Jan. 28 in order to give Spaugh's attorneys time to take the case to the United States Supreme Court.

Such was the condition of the wires from sleet storms that there was no means of communication between Jefferson City and Centerville, and State officials expressed fear that no information of the reprieve would reach Fitts in time to save Spaugh's life.

When news of the reprieve reached St. Louis Wednesday afternoon there was no telephone circuit to Centerville and all connecting telegraph wires were down. Toll Manager Gann of the Bell Telephone Co., when the situation was explained to him, put into play all the resources of the company, and in a short while had a circuit in use to Centerville. It was roundabout, and the connections were so faulty on account of the storm that it was necessary to relay the message.

Officials at Jefferson City were busy meanwhile, and at 10 p. m. a telegram from Gov. Folk reached Piedmont by a circuitous route. Manager Wayland read it over the telephone to Fitts, setting at rest the last doubts the Sheriff may have entertained as to the authenticity of his information regarding the reprieve.

SUIT ON MISPAGEL LOAN.

The Third National Bank has filed suit in the Circuit Court against the St. Charles Savings Bank for $18,896.10, which is alleged to be due on a note signed by W. J. Baird and guaranteed by the St. Charles Savings Bank when Anton Mispagel was cashier.

The petition states that it was on Mispagel's recommendation, as representative of the bank, that the loan was made. The note was for $20,000, and $1462.90 has been paid, it is stated. The petition alleges that there were collateral securities deposited, but that they have since become worthless.

The Third National Bank was the St. Louis correspondent for the St. Charles Savings Bank during the period of Mispagel's connection with it.

ENTIRE MILLINERY STOCK MUST BE SOLD

To Accomplish This Before Feb. 1 We Have Reduced Prices Regardless of Cost.

A SALE that makes possible the purchase of three, four, six or even more Hats for the former price of one. Not a Hat in our entire stock has been reserved. All from the most inexpensive to the finest French imported models have been marked to insure immediate sale. The prices we are naming, in practically every instance, represent only a bare fraction of the cost of materials. There are hundreds of Hats—not a limited number—and all were purchased for this season's business.

We have made such extraordinary reductions because we intend to close out every Hat immediately, rather than wait four to six weeks longer to effect a clearance. Our intention is to begin the month of February with a complete new stock, and these wonderful reductions will enable us to do it. Arrangements have been made to wait on everyone promptly and satisfactorily. To accommodate the large stock, we have placed a number of additional tables in the Women's costume section, adjoining the Millinery department.

JOHN WAHL IS IMPROVED.

President of German Savings Institution Fell on Walk.

John Wahl, president of the German Savings Institution and the Wahl Commission Co., was taken to his home late Wednesday suffering from a deep scalp wound caused by a fall on Chestnut street, between Broadway and Fourth street. It was said at his home, 3652 Evans avenue, Thursday morning that his condition was much improved and that the family anticipated no serious result from the accident.

It is thought that Mr. Wahl's fall was caused by an attack of vertigo. He was carried to the bank building, Fourth and Pine streets, and remained unconscious for an hour. Mr. Wahl is 74 years old and is one of the oldest bankers in St. Louis.

THE VALUE OF CHARCOAL.

Few People Know How Useful It Is in Preserving Health and Beauty.

Costs Nothing to Try.

Nearly everybody knows that charcoal is the safest and most efficient disinfectant and purifier in nature, but few realize its value when taken into the human system for the same cleansing purpose.

Charcoal is a remedy that the more you take of it the better; it is not a drug at all, but simply absorbs the gases and impurities always present in the stomach and intestines and carries them out of the system.

Charcoal sweetens the breath after smoking, drinking or after eating onions and other odorous vegetables.

Charcoal effectually clears and improves the complexion, it whitens the teeth and further acts as a natural and eminently safe cathartic.

It absorbs the injurious gases which collect in the stomach and bowels; it disinfects the mouth and throat from the poison of catarrh.

All druggists sell charcoal in one form or another, but probably the best charcoal and the most for the money is in Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges; they are composed of the finest powdered Willow charcoal and other harmless antiseptics in tablet form, or, rather, in the form of large, pleasant tasting lozenges, the charcoal being mixed with honey.

The daily use of these lozenges will soon tell in a much improved condition of the general health, better complexion, sweeter breath and purer blood, and the beauty of it is, that no possible harm can result from their continued use, but, on the contrary, great benefit.

A Buffalo physician, in speaking of the benefits of charcoal, says: "I advise Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges to all patients suffering from gas in stomach and bowels, and to clear the complexion and purify the breath, mouth and throat; I also believe the liver is greatly benefited by the daily use of them; they cost but twenty-five cents a box at drug stores, and although in some sense a patent preparation, yet I believe I get more and better charcoal in Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges than in any of the ordinary charcoal tablets."

"FORTY THIEVES" IN "DOGTOWN"

Over 1000 Chickens Stolen by Braggart Band in Period of Two Years.

POLICE APPEALED TO

Owners of Fowls May Form Vigilance Committee to Obtain Relief.

The reign of the "Forty Thieves" of "Dogtown," near Newstead avenue and the railroad tracks is doomed. Mrs. Mary Duff of 4417 Clayton avenue, who has lost over 100 chickens recently, as leader of the crusade against the chicken thieves, has appealed personally to Chief Creecy to stop the lawlessness.

When Mrs. Duff awoke Thursday she found at her door a piece of board upon which was drawn with a pencil the death sign of a skull and cross bones, warning her to stop interference with the thievery. Mrs. Duff took the board and hastened to the office of Chief Creecy.

The skull is a chicken head instead of the usual human skull and the cross bones are chicken legs. Mrs. Duff appeared to be very much excited and alarmed over the sign.

She told a Post-Dispatch reporter a story of how a band of persons, including women, had boldly operated in her residence district for more than two years, stealing hundreds of chickens. She said that over 100 chickens had been stolen by this gang within the two years and she did not hesitate to name the persons who are implicated in the theft of the chickens.

Mrs. Duff says that the gang has become so bold that the members have styled themselves "The Forty Thieves" and steal chickens from under her own nose.

Mrs. Duff told Chief Creecy that she and other citizens who have been victimes of the thieves have appealed to the Newstead Avenue Police Station tim after time for protection, but the thieves have not been molested by the police. She says if the chickens continue to be taken that she and other residents will form a shotgun committee themselves and put a stop to the theft.

Chief Creecy told the woman that he would personally investigate the case and would put a stop to the thievery if it required all of the police force to accomplish it.

Besides the 100 chickens that have stolen from Mrs. Duff, Mrs. Kate Yates of 4413 Clayton avenue has lost 115, Mrs. George Angel of 4250 Papin street has lost 100, and Mrs. Minnie Gavinger of 4469 Clayton avenue 100. Many of Mrs. Gavinger's chickens were pets and eggs ones, many of them being prize winners. Mrs. Duff says there are many other citizens in her neighborhood that have lost the same number of chickens.

She said that the failure of the police to stop the thieves has made them bolder and they brag about how many they steal and visit homes in the daytime and carry off choice fowls.

The persons who have lost the chickens have small poultry farms and raise the chickens mostly for the market.

CITY OUGHT TO BUILD SUBWAY, THINKS BEGGS

Head of United Railways Says That There Is No Time for Dallying.

TRAFFIC GROWING FAST

Traction Magnate Makes a Speech at Meeting of the Engineers' Club.

HIS SERVICE ATTACKED

Albert I. Perkins Declares Consolidated Systems Inadequate to Carry the Public.

After Albert T. Perkins, traffic expert of the Terminal Commission, speaking before the Engineers' Club Wednesday night, had shown the inadequacy of the United Railways Co. to handle, with its present surface lines, the enormously increased and increasing passenger traffic in St. Louis, President John I. Beggs of the United Railways Co. rose and said that what St. Louis needed was a subway and that it couldn't get to work on it too soon.

Mr. Beggs talked of the efforts that the United Railways was making to satisfactorily carry the passengers. He said that when the crowds were going down to work in the morning and when they were coming back at night, the problems that confronted the railway company were exceedingly complex.

He said that if the present rate of increase in passenger traffic keeps up for 10 years it will become an absolute necessity to provide a relief for the congestion. This relief, he said, could be best obtained through a subway.

He also laid stress on the point that a subway is a very difficult thing to build, that it will cost many millions, and that there are engineering problems which will have to be solved before the excavation work is done. For this reason he advised the immediate taking up by the city of the subway project.

General Manager McCulloch of the United Railways Co. also spoke of the great increase in passenger traffic in St. Louis and the difficulties he experienced in handling it. He upheld the accommodations furnished by the United Railways Co. as being the best possible, under present conditions.

Perkins Give Figures.

Mr. Perkins in his talk went into an exhaustive analysis of the traffic situation in St. Louis. He had several maps which showed the increase in the number of passengers carried in the street cars of St. Louis from 1889, when 66,000,000 were carried in the year, up to 1906, during which 207,000,000 passengers rode on the cars.

Mr. Perkins also gave figures to show that in the last 11 years the traffic had been doubled. And he made the prediction that inside of the next 10 or 12 years it would double itself again.

With this as a basis for his argument, Mr. Perkins went into the subject of the subway. He told of how every city that had ever built elevated roads had been sorry afterwards.

"St. Louis has now come to a period of its existence," said Mr. Perkins, "that is extremely critical. Her passenger traffic has increased and is increasing so enormously that it is an easily recognizable fact that it cannot be properly handled with surface lines. St. Louis has made no mistakes yet in granting franchises for elevated roads. And it so happens that at the time when she is forced into realizing that a subway is the only solution of transit problems and she is growing in population and commerce in a startling way. There seems every reason to believe that, if she does the logical thing now in building a subway, she may become one of the best cities in the country from a transit standpoint."

After the meeting Mr. Perkins told a Post-Dispatch reporter that it seemed to be the unanimous opinion of the engineers at the meeting that a subway must be built and built as soon as possible.

Mr. Beggs said that he agreed with Mr. Perkins that the city should build the subway and lease out to an operating company. The enormous cost of a subway was given as his reason for not believing that private individuals would be willing to finance the scheme.

Why, the Stingy Creatures!

Mr. Beggs referred ironically to the "economical people" of St. Louis. He had discovered since the consolidation of the United Railways and the Suburban lines, he said, that persons who once thought walking a few blocks was "wholesome exercise" now demanded transfers. Mr. Beggs said that on the Suburban line 15 more cars a day are being operated than ever before, and that the total number of cars in the city was the greatest in its history.

Prof. Van Ornum of Washington University favored an underground system in the downtown section. He recommended three main surface lines, one along the river, another in Mill Creek Valley and a third along Easton avenue.

M. L. Holman, former Water Commissioner, thought the transit problem would be best solved by letting the business district of the city move westward. He favored two surface lines through Mill Creek Valley. Some residence districts in the West End, he said, would finally have to be sacrificed to meet the exigencies of the problem in that direction.

One of the immediate remedies suggested, and indorsed by Mr. Beggs, was the installation of loops to enable part of the cars on a line to turn back without making a full trip.

Other speakers were H. J. Pfeifer, engineer of maintenance and way of the Terminal Railroad Association; William Bouton, former City Engineer; W. A. Layton, former president of the Engineers' Club; A. P. Greenfelder, S. Bent Russell and H. Rohwer, consulting engineer of the Missouri Pacific. The meeting was presided over by W. S. Brenneke, vice-president of the club. R. H. Fernald acted as secretary.

Stofiel; treasurer, Louis Heck; Executive Committee—Daniel Cowan, George Kelly, Palmer Johnson, L. J. O'Keefe and Harry Gratton; Board of Trustees—J. E. Murray, A. J. Hughes, W. N. Fitzgerald, J. P. Notwithstanding the wonderful early inventions of the great EDISON, which shocked the conservatism of the most prominent scientists of the world, none of them contain the element of wonder to the degree found in the

in which so much iron, brass, wood, shellac, wax and other things are brought together and made to speak and sing so closely in imitation of the human voice as to almost defy detection. Nor is the EDISON confined to speaking and singing alone, for it reproduces the tones of any instrument exactly, precisely.

Through the medium of the EDISON PHONOGRAPH may be heard great bands and great soloists—really the most versatile instructor and entertainer of the day—and for the small investment of $10; larger machines at $20, $30, $50 and up. Purchasable by easy payments, if desired.

Even though you may have no notion of buying, you are cordially invited to come to our Phonograph rooms and hear the "EDISON," hear any vocal or instrumental piece you like, hear it over and over again. Come any day. We warrant you'll be glad you came.

Sores Healed and Catarrh Cured

CROWDS FLOCK TO

Free Demonstrations

OF Healing Liquid X-Zalia

"You have certainly stirred up St. Louis with your cures of catarrh, pimples, etc.," said one St. Louis woman yesterday. "Why, all my friends are talking of this wonderful liquid, X-ZALIA." But read yourself what they say:

ECZEMA.

Sores, pimples, humor, barber's itch and other skin eruptions are cured because X-Zalia first destroys the germs that are keeping the sores from healing and then heals the broken out flesh, leaving the skin smooth and clean and healing the sores so completely that no trace of them is left.

ST. LOUIS LADY HAD CATARRH SO BADLY

Nothing Seemed to Help Her.

Mrs. F. W. Eling, 2835 Pine St., St. Louis, says: "I have suffered with head catarrh for two years. Nothing seemed to help me, and I grew steadily worse. I began to snuff X-Zalia up my nostrils, and from the very first it helped me, clearing my head immediately.

ECZEMA ON BABY'S HEAD

Scalp Was a Mass of Sores.

Mrs. Geo. Locke, 1809 Cass Av., St. Louis, says: "My baby's scalp was in a fearful condition with eczema sores. I tried salves, but got no results. I used three bottles of X-Zalia. It healed the sores and restored the scalp to a healthy condition."

PIMPLES HEALED

Another St. Louis Lady Cures Herself.

Mrs. Forrest, 3427 Morgan St., St. Louis, says: "I got a bottle of X-Zalia to see if it could clear my face of pimples. I kept my face wet with X-Zalia as much as possible. Soon the smaller pimples healed and the larger ones are already disappearing, and I know I will soon be entirely cured."

SORE THROAT.

By gargling with X-Zalia you clear away all the white spots gathered around the tonsils and heal the membrane lining of the throat. If you are so stuffed up you can hardly speak you should wrap a cloth wet with warm X-Zalia around throat and on the chest.

SORE THROAT CURED

So Hoarse Could Hardly Speak.

Miss Florence Wells, Suburban Park, St. Louis, says: "I caught a cold which resulted in such a sore throat that I could hardly speak. By gargling my throat with X-Zalia I got immediate relief and in a few hours my sore throat was entirely gone."

ULCER HEALED

Physician Uses X-Zalia on Patient.

Dr. L. W. Ray, 3962 Morgan St., St. Louis, says: "I have used X-Zalia on a patient whom I was treating for an ulcer of two years' standing. I found it was the only thing that could ease the pain and give the patient relief. The ordinary preparations were absolutely without effect. I highly recommended X-Zalia and shall use it in my practice."

CATARRH.

By snuffing this liquid through the nostrils you cut away and carry off all the phlegm deposited there and heal the mucous lining of the head and nostrils. Hundreds have cured the worst cases of catarrh by this simple method of treatment.

SCALP SORES.

And itching scalp are small eruptions that can be quickly healed by applying this liquid, X-Zalia. It quickly penetrates into the cuticle of the scalp, healing the small sores and putting the scalp in a clean, healthy condition.

BURNED ARM HEALED

Pain Disappears at First Application.

George Fisher, 1308 S. Third St., St. Louis, says: "I am a blacksmith by trade, and while engaged in my work the other day, severely burned my arm. I immediately went to the X-Zalia nurse, and the first application of this soothing liquid took away the pain. As a cure for burns X-Zalia is unequaled."

MOUTH SORES.

Rinsing the mouth with this liquid draws out all the inflammation of the gums and quickly heals all cankers, gum boils and sore gums. Those with receding gums and loosened teeth will find X-Zalia tightens the teeth and makes the gums firm.

FACE BROKEN OUT

Another St. Louis Girl Finds Relief.

Miss Frances Kalney, 3935 Pennsylvania Av., St. Louis, says: "For three years I suffered with rose acne and my face has been in a terrible state. I have been using X-Zalia, and it is wonderful the way in which it has cleared my skin, taking away the redness and eruption. Nothing I previously used gave me any results whatever."

PILES.

One man writes: "I suffered so with piles I was tempted to use morphine in order to obtain relief and sleep. But one night, while suffering intensely, I wet the sores with that liquid X-Zalia, and in 15 minutes I was asleep. I continued using X-Zalia and was completely cured." Another writes: "I suffered from bleeding piles for seven years, bleeding profusely every day. I used two bottles of X-Zalia and have succeeded in stopping the bleeding and obtaining almost complete relief from pain." X-Zalia will cure piles in practically every case in which it is used. Get a bottle.

Talk with these people about their beneficial experiences with this liquid. A few words with them will convince you better than we could ever hope to do in cold type advertising. Then go to these

WE'LL STAND PAT ON TARIFF, SAYS CANNON

Speaker Defines Party's Position to Members of Commerce Delegation.

FAVORS A SHIP SUBSIDY

Says He Has Studied Upbuilding of the American Merchant Marine.

By Wire From the Washington Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—Speaker Cannon defined the position of the Republican party on the question of a maximum and minimum tariff and the shipping subsidy to members attending the convention for the extension of the foreign commerce of the United States.

While the Speaker insisted that he was speaking only in his individual capacity as a representative for the State of Illinois, his views are those of his party, as without his consent the Republicans of the House can do absolutely nothing. The Speaker and his leaders have already announced their intention of "standing pat" on the tariff question.

The delegation was headed by W. M. McCarroll of the New York Board of Trade and Transportation and assembled in the lobby of the House immediately after adjournment. Mr. McCarroll said that the varied interests represented, after many years of quibbling, had agreed to forget their differences and had indorsed a proposition of a maximum and minimum tariff and would aid ship subsidies. Just what was to be done along this line, Mr. McCarroll said, would be left to the wisdom of Congress.

During his speech Mr. Carroll used the word "reciprocity."

"That's a sweet word," Speaker Cannon said, interrupting. "Whenever it is used it is necessary to get out a dictionary to find out just what it means. I am for reciprocity in non-competing articles and against it on competing articles."

After a few preliminary remarks in welcoming the delegation, the Speaker go down to the subject of tariff, to which President McCarroll had referred.

"We should follow the cardinal principle," said the Speaker, "which will develop our resources and, so far as practicable, monopolize the home market first; and secondly, seek a foreign market for our surplus.

"A maximum and minimum tariff, I believe, is practicable, but the man who arranges the schedules, or the committee which arranges the schedules, has great investigations to make. If you do it horizontally upon the principal schedules that we have, there is not a manufacturer within the sound of my voice but who would swear that we were raising the prices of his raw material, or affecting his products.

A Tariff Big Stick.

"Speaking for myself as a member of the House, and if I understand the consensus of Republican opinion in the country, when I speak about a maximum and a minimum tariff, I speak about a minimum tariff that should run to all nations, and to all peoples, so adjusted as to offer ample protection to every American industry and to every man that lives in this republic. (Applause). When we obtain that then I would make a maximum tariff 10 per cent if you want it, or 20 per cent higher—and what for? I would make it so that if anybody discriminated against Uncle Sam's children the executive would be clothed with the power of ascertaining that fact and to discriminate by way of a set-off. In other words, that would be 'the big stick.' (Laughter and applause).

"Such a tariff, as I understand it, Germany has, and France has, and possibly other countries. I will tell you what country does not have it, and that is Great Britain. She takes one-half of our total exports. Now, how could you have reciprocity with France and Germany that would let in French or German textiles or manufactured products more cheaply than we would let in British products? Because you must recollect that she has in competing products no tariff at all.

"It could be very readily managed if with time and investigation you could make a minimum tariff that would be of sufficient protection and then have a maximum tariff with which we could punish somebody that was treating us badly.

"There are many people who are for a minimum and maximum tariff. I have some in my mind's eye now. There are some of them in my State—very clever people—and I do not speak disrespectfully of them. When you talk about a minimum tariff that affords ample protection to American industries and that you would make a maximum higher, those of them who are not Christians would say 'Damn!' and those of them who are would shake their heads. (Laughter and applause.) So you see there is a great deal to think about regarding this maximum and minimum tariff."

Continuing, the speaker took up the subject of subsidy, and, after saying the situation, said that had been well known that his position had long been that money should not be taken from the United States Treasury without proper return therefor. He said he had investigated the subject of upbuilding the American merchant marine, and that those members who had to deal with the subject had come to the conclusion that if the bill which was acted upon by the committee Tuesday were to become a law that it would benefit the merchant marine. He assured the delegation that it would have his support.

A Boon to the Bilious

Are you compelled to deny yourself many wholesome foods because you think they make you bilious? Do you know that your condition is more to blame than the foods? Your liver and stomach need attention more than the diet. When you find yourself suffering with a bilious attack, take and all annoying symptoms will soon disappear. They settle the stomach, regulate the liver and exercise the bowels. Their good effects are felt immediately.

BEECHAM'S PILLS

Beecham's Pills mingle with the contents of the stomach and make easy work of digestion. The nourishing properties of the food are then readily assimilated and the residue carried off without irritating the intestines or clogging the bowels.

Beecham's Pills should be taken whenever there is sick headache, furred tongue, constipation, sallow skin or any symptoms that indicate an inactive liver.

THREE CARS A MINUTE TOO FEW ON BROADWAY

With Utmost Possible Facilities Company Cannot Handle the Traffic.

Forty Women Among Those It Leaves Shivering on Corners.

THREE HUNDRED A TRIP

Hand Often Makes Triple Circuit of Fare Register in Rush Hour.

Do you think that we would love you
If you gave us all a seat?
Do you think that we would thank you
For a chance to rest our feet?
Do you think that we would hail you,
And laud you to the sky,
Mr. Beggs, if you would help us—
Why don't you try, why don't you try?

At Broadway and Morgan street, at 6 a. m., Thursday, 140 persons with nickels for the United Railways Co. waited for a chance to board cars on the Broadway line.

Of these 80 were at the southwest corner and 60 at the northeast corner.

When car 2373, northbound, arrived it was so packed that only 10 of the waiting 60 were able to crowd on to the front and rear platform. Of these four were women. Twenty women and 30 men remained on the corner. Before another Broadway car arrived, an eastbound Easton car unloaded 20 more passengers at the corner.

Five Broadway cars, northbound, and all crowded, stopped at the corner before all the waiting passengers were picked up.

Of the 80 who waited on the southwest corner for a southbound car, only 12 were able to clamber aboard car 1734. Of these five were women. Four of the men had to hang on the rear step. Six cars were necessary to afford precarious standing room for the remainder of the crowd.

Frail women, not strong enough to push their way on to the crowded platforms, lost 10 minutes at this corner, not because there were not frequent cars, but because the cars were so crowded that passengers could not board them without risking life and limb.

The service on the Boardway line is in some respects the best in the city. In the busy hours of morning and evening 80 cars are run half a block apart, on a space of not more than 20 seconds.

The route is a straightaway course 11 miles long. There is not a curve on the line, except at points where the street bends slightly.

The street is wide and there is little interference from vehicle traffic.

Car Sheds at Each End.

On this line also the company has an advantage which it does not enjoy on any other division of its system. There are car sheds at both ends of the route. This makes it possible to start extra cars for the morning and evening rush from both ends of the line simultaneously.

Passengers acknowledged that the cars could not be run safely any closer together that at present.

But, with the best possible service, the United Railways Co. cannot handle the traffic.

It is no unusual thing for the register hand on a Broadway car to make three full circuits of the dial on a half trip between Baden and Carondelet, recording 300 fares.

Car 2373, for which 60 passengers waited at the northeast corner of Broadway and Morgan street Thursday morning, is a case in point.

When this car reached Chippewa street, 3800 south, on its first trip from Carondelet at 5:30 a. m., it had covered less than one-fourth of its journey to Baden, and was only half way downtown. Yet the cash fare dial registered 80. The first transfer point is at Chippewa street. Here 20 passengers boarded the car and at Sidney street, 2900 south, the registers showed 110 cash fares and 18 transfers.

The 46 seats were filled. Fifty passengers stood in the aisle and 20 were on the platforms. Twelve had left the car at intermediate points.

At Market street 153 cash fares and 42 transfers were registered. Here 25 passengers were picked up.

An accurate count showed that on corners between Sidney and Market streets, a distance of 25 blocks, 300 persons waited for a chance to get on this car. Of these, 62 succeeded in gaining a foothold.

From Chouteau avenue north passengers got off at every corner, but their places were quickly taken by others.

The last important transfer point on the north trip was at Morgan street. Here the register showed 182 cash fares and 53 transfers.

The personnel of the crowd in the car had been changing all the time, but still all the seats were filled and many were standing.

More Than 200 Carried.

The aisle was not cleared until North Market street was reached.

From that point north there were seats for all. When Baden was reached the cash fare register had passed the 200 mark.

"I have carried more than that on the morning trip," said the conductor.

The morning rush on the Broadway line is considered practically over at 7:30 a. m. Yet car 2399, passing Chippewa street northbound at that hour, carried 63 cash and 12 transfer passengers, with a seating capacity of 46. When the car reached Olive street the register showed 94 cash fares and 19 transfers.

The evening rush on the Broadway line lasts from 5:30 to 7 o'clock.

Car 1929 crossed Olive street going south at 5:45 p. m. Wednesday. Forty-four passengers were seated and 52 were standing.

Between Olive street and Sidney street, a distance of 29 blocks, 110 passengers who wanted to board the cars were unable to do so, because of its crowded condition. Of these, 70 were women. At Sidney street the registers showed 118 cash fares and 32 transfers.

Car 2294, southbound, reached Sidney street at 6:10 p. m. It was so crowded that it was difficult to squeeze on to the rear platform. The register showed 146

HOW OTHER LINES FAIL; WHAT THE PUBLIC THINKS

ARTICLE NO. 3

Of a series designed to show the exact conditions of street railway traffic in St. Louis. The information is based on observations by Post-Dispatch reporters.

SYNOPSIS OF PREVIOUS ARTICLES.

In Tuesday's Post-Dispatch it was shown that the Hodiamont line, formerly the Suburban system, though equipped with the largest cars in the city and running on short space, is unable to handle its passengers quickly and comfortably.

In Wednesday's Post-Dispatch conditions on the Olive line were reviewed. It was shown that the cars are crowded morning and evening and that traffic is uncomfortably heavy, even in the middle of the day.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE.

Wants Suburban Back.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I am glad to see that you are taking up the street car question.

I believe many of your readers who were clamoring to have the United Railways Co. take over the management of the Suburban system by the first of the year, so that they could secure transfers, are now sorry that the company was not even more tardy in assuming control. I always used the Suburban cars, but now I prefer walking two blocks further to Olive street, for then I can generally get standing room. H. H. M.

A Passenger's Idea.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Regarding the reliability of the United Railways Co. to furnish seats for all passengers on the cars, how would the following do as a remedy? Let every passenger when he secures a seat pay a 5 cent fare. Those who have to stand, 3 cents. Perhaps the loss of 2 cents on so many persons would cause the company to try and furnish better facilities during the busy hours. WM. F. SCHMIDT, 3500 Olive street.

Sarah Street Service.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Having just noticed your article in tonight's paper on the street car conditions of St. Louis, I hand you herewith a collection of transfers to the Sarah street line which have been taken with the expectation of using that line to complete a trip heretofore not requiring any transfer, but which could not be used because there were no cars to ride on. I had intended to send these to Capt. McCulloch to refute the statement attributed to him that "kicks are made by those trying to get round-trip rides on transfers," but think your reporters can use them to better effect.

On the night of Jan. 3 I waited fully fifteen minutes at corner of Olive and Sarah, and finally walked five blocks to my home. Next day the same thing occurred. Evenings not represented by transfers I have walked three blocks to the Laclede cars rather than risk the other. One Olive car carried 117 passengers between Fourth and Sarah street.

Lucky to Get On at All.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Dear Sir—The articles you have started in reference to the street car service must have the indorsement of everyone who has occasion to use the cars. Service before the consolidation was tolerable, but now it is intolerable.

The writer resides on Cook avenue and uses the cars running on Finney avenue. When the Delmar cars were running down that street in connection with the Page cars, it was possible to get a seat, but under the present condition of things it is not only impossible to get a seat, but you are lucky if you can find enough room on the steps to get on the car at all.

Such a condition of things would not have been permitted to exist before the consolidation. It would have been poor business, because people would walk a few blocks farther and take the Suburban line, but now it is a case of take what you can get, and if you are dissatisfied, perhaps you will get less.

The trouble lies in the fact that street railways are operated with the idea of advancing the stock on the market and not for public service. I would imagine that the franchise under which they operate would cover the point of service, and there should be a public demand that the company live up to it to the letter. Wonderful things are accomplished when the public gets aroused—often monopolies are brought to time. I hope the Post-Dispatch will keep up the fight it has started.

Very respectfully yours, L. B.

OLDRIEVE WALKS ON THE WATER

He's Strolling Down the Mississippi En Route to New Orleans.

HASN'T TRIPPED ONCE

Wife "Stands By" in Houseboat to Aid Him if He Turns Turtle.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CAIRO, Ill., Jan. 17.—When Prof. Charles Oldrieve arrived here yesterday afternoon, walking upon the river in his skiff-like shoes, fully 10,000 persons were assembled on the levee front to see him make fast to the wharfboat.

As he goes down the river he is closely followed by his wife in a houseboat, who is ever ready to lend him immediate assistance in case he becomes waterlogged, sinks or turns turtle. Since leaving Cincinnati, however, Oldrieve has had no occasion to fly a distress signal and sails down the river like an old tried steamer.

Oldrieve is attempting to walk by river from Cincinnati to New Orleans on a wager of $5000. He carries a Government message from the Custom House at the former place to the Chief Clerk of the Custom House in New Orleans.

He reached Mound City at 11 o'clock yesterday morning and tied up until 2:30 in the afternoon, when he again got his river gear in ship-shape and pushed off. He arrived here at 4:19 o'clock and climbed aboard the houseboat, where he remained all night.

Oldrieve and his wife eat and sleep on the houseboat and are allowed time for accidents and sickness. When he left here at 8 o'clock this morning a large crowd thronged the wharf and, as he once more got under way, wished him bon voyage.

Hiawatha Manager Arrested.

William Morische and William Parker, his negro porter, were arrested Thursday at the headquarters of the Hiawatha Club, of which Morische is manager, at 6612 Maple avenue. The charter of the club was revoked 10 days ago. Deputy Sheriff Clarence Campbell went there to serve a warrant charging Morische with selling liquor. While at the club Campbell bought a drink from Parker. He held the whiskey as evidence and arrested the negro. Morische and Parker gave bond to answer charges of selling intoxicating liquors without a

SENATE CLERKS MUST WORK

Resolution Adopted Requires Daily Attendance.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Jan. 17.—Senator McDavid threw a bombshell into the camp of the grafters today by the introduction of a resolution calling upon the Committee on Accounts to require every clerk who appears on the Senate payroll to report for work each morning.

The Senate employs 120 clerks, although only about 15 are in evidence about the committee rooms. Quite a number remain at their homes in St. Louis and Kansas City and draw their weekly stipend of $24.50, the same as if they had earned it. McDavid wants to remedy this scandalous condition of affairs. After a brief discussion, the Senate adopted his resolution.

FOLLOWED HUSBAND IN DISGUISE TO MEETING WITH OTHER WOMAN

SLEW HER HUSBAND, SHE SAYS, BECAUSE SHE LOVED HIM SO

Grand Jury at Edwardsville Takes Up Case Against Mrs. Lucy Shannon—She, Weeping, Declares Deed Was Done in Jealous Rage.

MRS. LUCY SHANNON PHOTOGRAPHED IN JAIL.

THE Madison County grand jury at Edwardsville took up Thursday the case of Mrs. Lucy Shannon of Maryville, charged with killing her husband, Leonard Shannon, who was for 4 years a conductor on the East St. Louis & Suburban Railway.

A large number of witnesses have been summoned and an effort will be made by the State to obtain an indictment for murder in the first degree.

Mrs. Shannon shot her husband in the yard at their home between Edwardsville and Collinsville, Dec. 31. He died in St. Mary's Hospital in East St. Louis New Year's night. Mrs. Shannon said she was goaded to desperation by jealousy.

Mrs. Shannon's attorneys say they have not yet outlined the defense, as her condition has not permitted lengthy conferences.

DEVOTED IN MEMORY TO HUSBAND SHE KILLED.

BY MARY MARCH.

AS MRS. LUCY SHANNON reclines on her cot in the Edwardsville Jail, she lives and dreams of the intense love she possessed for the man who was her husband and who died as a result of the passionate jealousy she felt when she discovered that her love was not reciprocated. Regardless of his apparent disloyalty, Mrs. Shannon cannot forget and murmurs with emotion: "Even yet, I love him—love him. I killed him for love of him.

"It was wrong, all wrong, but I was driven to desperation," Mrs. Shannon told a Post-Dispatch reporter. "I hope no other woman will ever love a man as I loved Lenney Shannon, nor will suffer what I did those last two months. Oh, that black month of November and that even blacker December!

"When I sat all alone in the house, with nothing for companion except the tick of the clock all night, night after night, waiting, hoping that he might come, I was killing myself slowly.

"But when he did come home and made promises that he would not go away again, I believed him and forgave him and was happy to have him back once more.

"From the seventh of November that is what I endured. At first I believed all his explanations of his absences, and when anyone came to me with reports of things he was doing I told them they didn't know Lenney as I did; that I knew he would not do wrong. I loved him with such perfect confidence!

Pain Sweet at His Hands.

"If he had continued to show affection for me I would have believed every word about his working at night for his brother, and the other excuses which he gave me for being from home all day and all night; but when I put my arms about his neck one evening he threw me from him. He threatened to harm me, and after a time I became afraid he would do as he said, but I don't think I would have struggled.

"I told him I believed he was spending his time with a women in St. Louis. He said he guessed I was right and that he expected to go again. He said he would go whenever he felt like it.

"He said he knew lots of people who were always glad to see him, and that he had met some jolly women at a dance.

"He had quit his work on the Interurban about the first of December. He said that I should not spend more than $1.50 a week for our table. And then he told me that I would never get any more money from him, but I didn't need much and that part didn't worry me at all.

Heart Hunger Worst.

"I would have been glad to starve to death if I might have had his love as I had it only a few weeks before.

"I don't see why he didn't listen to me when I pleaded with him to give up those trips to St. Louis, but every day he semed to get more reckless and to want to stay away longer. He was slowly killing me, but whenever he came home I just couldn't help but feel happy to have him in the house with me.

"He was the only man in the world for me. I don't know why I should have loved him so. He wasn't handsome or rich, and when I first met him I avoided him, but it was a love that grew, and even mistreatment didn't make it less strong.

"The thought that another had gained what I had lost was maddening. I didn't have any proof that there was anyone else in particular, but I had been told and he had acknowledged it himself. Even then I didn't want to believe it. It seemed that I would have done anything and given anything to find that there was a mistake. Then came the holidays.

"My Christmas day! Oh, what a day! All night and all Christmas morning I was alone. I supposed I would eat my dinner alone, because I did not have any idea when he would return, but about noon I saw him coming up the road and I was happy. It was like an electric shock. I began on the moment to think of getting up a good dinner, but when he came in he wouldn't even speak.

"I killed a little chicken and fried it nicely. He was so fond of fried chicken. It was a good dinner to have been prepared in such a short time, and he ate heartily, but we ate in silence, with my heart breaking.

"The day after Christmas he said he was going over to St. Louis again. I would be thinking of nothing but of him, anyway, and this jail makes no difference. Without Lenney, I have nothing to care for. I am comfortable here.

"The one thing in my mind all the time is the love I have for Lenney. No one can claim him now."

A drooping, broken little figure, Mrs. Shannon burst frequently into sobs during her narrative of the tragedy and the events preceding it.

"FIRST IN EVERYTHING."

Sing for the subways, boom the bridge, call for the canal.

The Constitution had been cracked a good deal before the big stick hit it.

Dental science has indeed progressed. Many of us cannot open our mouths without testifying to the fact.

TO CONTROL PUBLIC UTILITIES.

Two bills embodying the recommendations of Gov. Folk should be passed by the State Legislature.

One is a bill enabling the municipalities to own and operate public utilities and to issue bonds for the purpose of constructing and purchasing plants for that purpose. Another measure is the bill empowering municipalities to control and regulate public utilities and to fix rates, charges, conditions of service, etc.

We do not believe it practical for the municipalities of the State at present to go extensively into the construction and operation of public utilities, but the power to construct, purchase, own and operate them is a valuable power for use in the event of failure of public service corporations to meet their obligations and to give adequate service for fair compensation.

For immediate relief from the oppression of public service corporations, which are practical monopolies, municipalities should be given full power—power beyond the shadow of a doubt—to compel adequate service at fair rates. They should be able to compel street railways to give a sufficient number of cars and to run them on schedules which will supply adequate accommodation, comfort and convenience to the public. They should be able to compel these corporations holding municipal franchises to operate lines needed for the public. They should be able to compel them to charge only reasonable rates for the service. By reasonable rates is meant a fair return on the investment.

With this unquestioned power to force public service corporations to meet their obligations to the public and to charge only fair rates, people of the cities can compel their municipal officers to enforce fair regulations. But if regulation fails, if it is found practically impossible to control public utilities in the interest of the public, municipalities can take advantage of the alternative power to own and operate their public utilities.

If we have been building a great navy on a patent owned by Peter McMillan of Missouri, not an hour should be lost in paying him what is his due.

NO SYMPATHY FOR SAGER.

Circuit Attorney Sager is neither so valorous nor so ingenious as Lew Dockstader's editor. When a citizen telephoned in denying the published report of his death, the editor said: "Sorry, but if we said you were dead, you're dead. The best we can do for you is to put you in tomorrow's birth column."

Mr. Sager was reported to have said that he did not want a girl operator at the Four Courts telephone exchange because girls cannot keep secrets. Now he publishes broadcast a letter to all the telephone girls here and everywhere, not only denying that he said it, but declaring that women can keep secrets better than men, and that he would rather have a girl operator in his office than a man.

What a mess he has made of it, indeed! Aside from unnecessary self-abasement in which no other member of his sex will consent to join him, but in which they will all hope to see him stew thoroughly, he has made himself the laughing stock of those whom he thought to propitiate, for the women know well enough they cannot keep a secret, however much the Circuit Attorney may protest that they can.

Rather than a weak-hearted man like Mr. Sager, who permits maudlin gallantry to overcome his principles, the ladies would prefer a downright mean but brave man like Henry M. Blosson Jr., whose version of this is that "a woman can keep a secret—going."

Mr. Brown of Nebraska will be in the Senate with Mr. Smith of Michigan.

WOMEN'S WAGES.

According to the census figures for 1905, the number of women workers 16 years of age and over was 1,065,511, having increased from 918,511 in 1900, or 16 per cent increase.

In 1900 the women workers were earning an average of $270 apiece. In 1905 the women workers received an average of $291 apiece.

But in 1900 the men workers earned an average wage of $477, while in 1905 the average wage of a male worker had increased to $533.

These figures are interesting, in view of the fact that two leading women are on different sides of the fence in regard to the question of women's wages.

Mrs. Harriet Stanton Blatch, daughter of Elizabeth Cady Stanton, has started a movement in New York to increase women's wages. She insists that wages should be equalized—that a woman should get as much as a man.

Miss Phoebe Couzins, the well-known St. Louis woman lawyer, denies this, though she used to be a strenuous advocate of woman's rights, including equal wages with men. Miss Couzins, having had the experience of a semi-public life, and having come in contact with all classes of workers of both sexes, says that women cannot earn as much as men and should not expect equal pay. She says that a woman is not fitted by nature to compete with men. Men, she says, enter the industrial or professional field in order to fit themselves to support wives. Women, on the contrary, seldom or never expect to stay in industry, outside the home, but look forward to marriage. This takes from them the incentive to work as efficiently as men work.

It is evident that the question is far from settled. The figures fail to show any decline in the annual increase of women who seek to earn a living outside the home, while the rate of increase in their pay gives no hope that equality in wages will be speedily realized. But the question of how much they ought to receive is purely a question of equity, based upon their earning capacity. They ought to be paid what they can earn—as much as men if their work is worth it.

Mr. Sager's latest statement is that a woman can keep a secret better than a man. Fifty per cent better. And how much faster she uses the phone!

OPEN GUBERNATORIAL DOORS.

Strange rumors concerning Gov. Folk and members of the State Legislature come from Jefferson City. We learn from the veracious correspondents that the Governor is entertaining senators and representatives in squads at his home. He introduces them to the best that the gubernatorial larder affords of the season's choicest viands, and presumably (except on Sunday, of course) of well-seasoned liquid refreshment. He teaches them how to play pool.

Incidentally, we are told, between courses, between shots, between puffs, the Governor diplomatically touches upon measures dear to the gubernatorial heart.

Far be it from us to hint that the Governor is playing the part of the lobbyist. That word cannot be applied to the Chief Executive. It would be wofully misplaced in application to the present Governor, who has given ample proofs of his devotion to the public welfare, as he sees it. No doubt in all of the Governor's efforts to direct the acts of the Legislature as a whole or legislators individually, he is moved by patriotic impulse to serve the public good.

But how far ought the personal influence of the Governor of the State and his persuasive powers applied directly to the individual legislator, be used to promote the adoption of his own pet measures, or to defeat measures which he opposes. Is there anything which a Governor ought to say to a legislator personally and privately, which could not be said in a message to the Legislature collectively and publicly?

The Governor's recommendations and cherished measures should win squarely on their merits, or not at all. If they cannot be carried by reason, they ought not to be carried by influence.

The Governor and the Legislature have separate functions. The action of both is needed to make laws and determine what measures shall become laws. They should act independently, except in so far as the Governor may affect the action of the Legislature by public recommendations and suggestions.

The private conference is the traditional method of spoilsmen to get together and grind each other's axes. It is branded with the brand of the machine politics. Over loaded tables behind closed doors all jobs that have disgraced governments and soiled administrations have been hatched. While there is no reason why there should not be an exchange of social courtesies between governors and members of Legislatures, the only safe way for these public servants to exchange views and to influence each other's actions is through public utterances so that the springs and reasons of action on the part of either may be known to the people.

A wise reform Governor will avoid the appearance of the evil which he himself condemns and will hold himself free from precedents which might be abused by others.

What does a large per capita amount to without an elastic currency?

THE TRADE IN MATRIMONY.

The Ohio indictment against the son of the Vice-President of the United States for perjury is a serious matter. It demands investigation to the bottom. If the indictment is returned for political purposes or any other purpose than that of enforcing the law, the crime of returning it is greater than the crime charged.

Taking the charge as it stands, it shows the results of the trade in marriages and in marriage licenses. Difficulties which, wisely or unwisely, the law throws in the way of marriage under the license system, give occasion and opportunity for a regular trade carried on by small officials and their hangers-on.

The fee system is responsible for results which the license system promotes. In St. Louis suburbs on both sides of the Mississippi River, where marriage is made easy in spite of the difficulty created by the license laws, it is a practice of the system to get around perjury if possible. It is not always possible. Frequent perjury is certainly a result of the "easy marriage" in violation of law, but under legal forms which often end in other legal forms in the divorce courts.

The fee system certainly operates thus as the marriage trade is carried on, from St. Louis as a base, in both Illinois and Missouri. It probably operates in the same way in Ohio. Indicting the victims of the system and of the trade does not promise any far-reaching reform of the abuse.

It looks like another busy year for the seismograph.

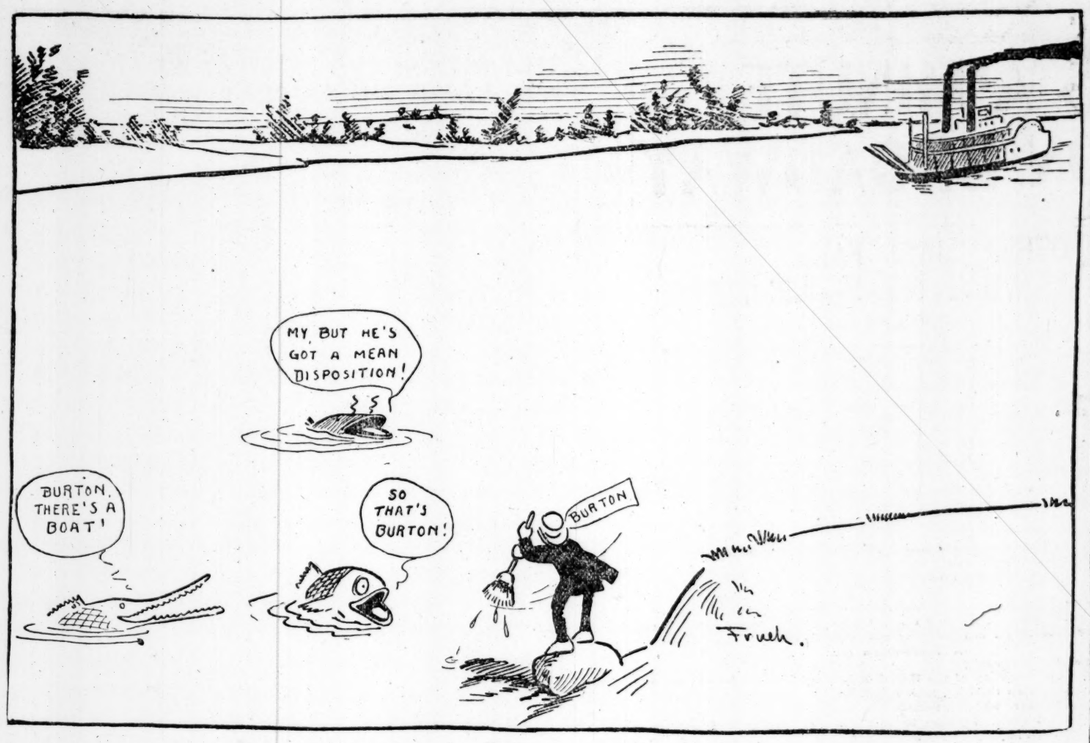

IMMIGRATION IN THE SOUTH.

From the New Orleans Picayune.

The constantly increasing gravity of the labor problem in the South has within the past few years turned the attention of the various Southern States governments to the desirability of fostering immigration to this section, not only from the more thickly populated portions of the North and West, but from abroad as well. With each passing season the scarcity of labor in the cotton fields becomes more acute. The negroes, who have formerly furnished the bulk of the agricultural labor, are steadily abandoning the country and drifting to the towns and railroad construction camps, where work is plentiful and wages are higher than on the plantations. Unless a new labor supply can be found to replace the negro in the cotton fields and sugar plantations of the South, the agricultural interests of this section are bound to suffer; in fact, they have already suffered.

What's in the magazines?
A chapter of a tale,
A maiden with a can of beans
Held sweetly by the bail,
A piece of poetry or so,
According as they fit,
A color page or two for show,
A flash or so of wit,
A half-dressed man in underwear,
Without a hint of shame,
A girl with Absalomic hair
And stuff to grow the same,
A bit of travel showing scenes
In some far-distant part,
And here and there, as in-betweens,
A little dash of art,
Some human feet, displaying socks
And virtues claimed of each,
A couple spooning on the rocks
To advertise a beach,
A tooth-wash girl with pearly teeth,
A Quaker eating oats,
A wave-tossed bar, with underneath
The simple line, "It floats,"
A wonderful variety
Of steamers, gasolines,
Etcetera would seem to be
What's in the magazines.

LOBBY ETIQUETTE.

Now that the boodlers and grafters are being replaced in lawmaking bodies by persons of better moral sense and necessarily greater education and refinement, the need for a standard book of lobby etiquette grows daily more acute.

The women especially feel the need of it. In Missouri, where the dawn of a new era in political affairs has both interested the women in the Legislature and given us a Legislature in which the women may dare to be interested, the uncertainty as to the proprieties is causing no little inquiry.

For instance, both the State organizations of the Missouri women's clubs and the W. C. T. U. have prepared pure food bills which they desire made into laws; but how to proceed? Inexperienced as they are in legislative matters, they know better than merely to leave their bills in the hands of some member. A bill, after being placed, must be followed up. It cannot go through; it must be hammered through.

This is a dangerous premise in which to give advice; but it seems indisputable that the ladies may go as far as they like short of actually spending money. To swoop down upon the members of the Legislature in well-led bevies, merely to emphasis the obvious need for such a law with a pleasant personal appeal, could not, seemingly, meet with any disapprobation, even from so stern a source as Gov. Folk. It is not certain that even a reception in the parlors of one of the Jefferson City hotels, with pink tea and inexpensive favors like cigars, say, would be considered going too far. So far from displeasing, such aggression would undoubtedly please. From all we hear, the lawmakers at Jefferson City lead a very barren life.

It is unfair to propose abandonment of the Carlisle Indian School out of the football season.

LOVE AFFAIRS OF FAMOUS MEN

Written for the Post-Dispatch

BY NIXOLA GREELEY-SMITH.

Some Sentimental Journeys of the Rev. Mr. Sterne.

LAURENCE STERNE author of "Tristram Shandy" and "The Sentimental Journey," and a clergyman, whose distinctly giddy life belied the austerity of his name, prepared a brief autobiography six months before he died for the benefit of his daughter, Lydia. In this cursory review only one love affair is mentioned — that which made Elizabeth Lumley his wife.

"At York," he wrote, "I became acquainted with your mother and courted her for two years. She owned she liked me, but thought herself not rich enough, or me too poor, to be joined together. She went to her sisters in S— and I wrote to her often. I believe then she was partly determined to have me, but would not say so. At her return she fell into a consumption, and one evening that I was sitting by her with an almost broken heart to see her so ill she said: 'My dear Lawrey, I can never be yours, for I verily believe I have not long to live, but I have left you every shilling of my fortune.' Upon that she showed me her will. This generosity overpowered me. It pleased God that she recovered, and I married her in 1741."

The two years of courtship were passed mainly at York, where Sterne, through the interest of an uncle, held a vicarage.

"We were as merry and innocent as our first parents in Paradise before the arch fiend entered that undescribable scene," wrote the enamored vicar.

Then "My L.," as he termed the languishing Miss Lumley, was obliged to return to her sisters in Staffordshire. Sterne, to console himself during her absence, hired the lodgings she had occupied, and when the last farewell was exchanged took to his bed "worn out by fevers of all kinds."

The moment the maid, Fanny, began to spread the table where he had often set at supper with his "L." and a chaperoning friend his heart failed him.

"One solitary plate, one knife, one fork, one glass," he wrote Miss Lumley in despair. "I gave a thousand penetrating looks at the chair thou hadst so often graced, then laid down my knife and fork and took out my handkerchief and clapped it across my face and wept like a child. I do so this moment, My L.,' for as I take up my pen my poor pulse quickens, my pale face glows and tears are trickling down the paper as I trace the word "L."

This and other effusive epistles were carefully preserved by Mrs. Sterne after her marriage. Mr. Sterne found they came in very handily when a short time before his death, in the throes of his last grand passion, he turned to them again and copied out the more effective passages to send to his new love.

Sterne's marriage was not a happy one. There is not the slightest doubt that he drew her portrait in the immortally commonplace and aggravating Mrs. Shandy. The lady had a great deal to put up with, and Sterne knew it. Once, in speaking of marriage, he said: "My wife is easy, and I should be a fool to rail at it."

In 1759, when he was 46 years old, he fell in love with a young French woman, Catharine de Fourmantelle, and began a series of letters to her, which she cherished as Mrs. Sterne had preserved her billets-doux.

He sent his dear Kitty everything from "pots of honey" and pickles to sermons. She was one of the longest, but not the last, of his loves. To record their names and histories would exact of the reader a patience equal to that of Mrs. Sterne, who placidly bore with them all.

Automobile Club Explains.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

The law regulating the speed of vehicles on the streets and in the parks of St. Louis has, so far, only been enforced against automobiles. The assurance of the President of the Police Board is given that it will be enforced against all vehicles. If so, the automobilists have nothing to complain of. Under the law, no vehicle can run at exceeding 8 miles per hour on the streets, nor can they move faster than 6 miles per hour in the parks.

Very few people appreciate how slow a pace of 8 miles per hour is. All the pleasure of owning a good horse to drive in the parks will be destroyed, if his pace is confined to 6 miles per hour.

The automobile club is composed of law abiding citizens, and its members cannot afford to stand in opposition to any existing law. If the people of this city don't want the present law, it should be changed; until it is changed, it should be enforced.

The bill now before the Legislature at Jefferson City is a fair one, both to the public and the owners of automobiles, and if enacted will settle this whole question, both in city and State.

The influence of owners of vehicles of all descriptions should be used to get the prompt passage of the bill regulating speed now before the Legislature.

The automobile club does not stand as resisting the present automobile law, or any law. Any of its members who may be arrested will be furnished counsel; but should they be convicted of violating the law, they will have to pay their own fines.

At this moment, the courts may take the reasonable view that as 15 miles per hour had been permitted by the police, a warning to go slow at the present time will be sufficient.

AUTOMOBILE CLUB OF ST. LOUIS,
Alex Euston, Prest.

Novel Speed Plan.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Referring to the recent eight-mile-an-hour ordinance, I wish to offer a suggestion to owners of automobiles. My idea is to send out automobiles fitted with speed-registering devices and containing responsible witnesses as passengers to pilot one street car on each of the leading car lines of the city and instruct the chauffeur to run at exactly eight miles an hour and hold his position on the track throughout the entire day. If he keeps this pace he is no obstruction and cannot be molested, and of course the street car motorman would not desire to pass the auto, as he would then be braking the law, and that is hardly possible. I think a little of this treatment would demonstrate the absurdity of the law.

FAIR PLAY.

Fleeting Cars.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Anyone like myself, having to use Broadway through cars south at 6:15 a. m., will please take note and see if something can't be done to compel motormen to stop for passengers and not compel them to wait about twenty minutes for a car to stop.

VICTIM.

Dentist Asks Relief.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

As is usual, the Post-Dispatch scored again in giving the "Poor Dental Student" space to voice his unfortunate position to the public, and especially to the "Manufacturers of Law in This State."

As stated in the article published in the Post-Dispatch Saturday, a law was passed requiring all graduates of dentistry to appear before a Board of State Dental Examiners and undergo a practical and theoretical examination before being permitted to practice in this State. Of course, I agree that this is an excellent law for the protection of the public as well as the practitioners of dentistry, but I also contend that all students who matriculated before this law went into effect should not be compelled to take the examination, but be permitted to register diplomas as was the custom before this new law went into effect.

The law now requires every student desiring to practice in this State to go to Jefferson City and appear before the Board of Examiners. This means railroad fare, hotel bill, examination fee and, in toto, quite an expensive proposition.

I would suggest that the dental students of St. Louis "get together" and strike during the present meeting of the Legislature, and no doubt something can be accomplished.

ANOTHER DENTAL STUDENT.

Rushing Children.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I have a son attending a public school in North St. Louis, who is not yet 8 years of age, and is being taught fractions. How is it that the teachers rush children through such trivial things as the "tables" when, like this boy, they don't even know them higher than the 2s?

Moreover, a child of 8 years is entirely too young to grasp such a difficult subject as fractions. Wish I might hear further on the above question.

A MOTHER.

THE OPTIMIST

He Gives Disgruntled Ones a Bit of Advice and Closes His Remarks in a Most Feeling Manner.

Written for the Post-Dispatch
By Hiram W. Hayes.

"WELL, now, this is comfort," said the rotund individual with a beaming countenance, as he shook the rain off his coat, sank into the seat across from the car stove and proceeded to open up the Post-Dispatch. I can't see the occasion for all this kicking about the street car service," and he beamed upon the passengers about him. "There's plenty of room here!"

"You try to get home two hours from now and you'll find the occasion," growled the cadaverous man in the seat ahead. "You couldn't find standing room!"

"And I'm not going to try," said the rotund one, as the car started up. "Why should I wait two hours to stand up in a crowd when I can go home at this hour and be comfortable."

"I don't see how anybody can be comfortable a day like this," growled the cadaverous one.

"Well, if this isn't comfort I don't know what you'd call it," said the optimist, as he looked out of the window at the rain which was falling in torrents. "Here we are running along home at a good rate of speed, we are dry and warm and for half an hour we are free from care. Even the bill collectors can't get us. Why, sir, at this moment I wouldn't change places with the King of England."

"Just wait till you have to get out," retorted the man ahead, "and the motorman drops you off in the mud and slush."

"But he won't drop me off in the mud and slush, for there won't be any. Can't you see that this downpour has washed off the pavements and I shall have the best walking I've had for many a day?"

The man ahead turned about with an attempt not to smile, but it was useless.

"I'm glad you're satisfied," he said. "But why shouldn't you be? If you want to go home before the rush, why, you can go. If you don't want to take a car, I reckon you have an automobile. Anybody could tell by looking at you that you didn't have a thing to worry about."

"I don't know about that," was the reply. "But this I do know: I never let anything worry me if I can help it. The trouble with most persons is that they go off half-cocked. They kick because it has come to be the fashion. Instead of trying to make the best of a condition, they insist upon making the worst of it.

"A well-aimed kick is a good thing, but promiscuous kicking in the air is wasted energy. You not only make everybody about you uncomfortable, but you put yourself into a condition of mind to go home and fire the hired girl, just when company is expected. If you want to kick, kick where it will do some good.

"I'll have to leave you here," said the optimist, as he arose and buttoned up his coat, "and this is my parting advice: If you want to kick about the muddy streets, don't stand on the corner in the rain and kick at the wide, wide world. Go up to the Street Commissioner's office and kick at Mr. Valliant. If you want to kick about the car service, don't get into a crowded car and kick at a lot of people that feel just as ugly as you do, but go up to the office of the company"—

The car struck a coal wagon and came to a sudden stop. As the optimist picked himself up off the floor he concluded:

"And kick Mr. Beggs. I've no doubt he needs it."

"OVER THE COFFEE"

Little Tales Told to a Post-Dispatch Reporter at the Lunch Hour.

Recorder of Deeds Joy, formerly Congressman, was speaking of Caulfield and the long wait before he went to Washington:

"He is a very serious man," said Joy, "but when he gets to Washington he will find that he will not be taken so seriously. The newspaper men there are inclined to play jokes on the new members of Congress.

"I remember one case, that of a new member who arrived shortly after I did. He and I met on the capitol steps and after being introduced he said he had a request to make. I told him to go ahead, and he said: 'I want you to introduce me to the railroad pass clerk.'

"I thought he was joking, but he was real serious about it and repeated his request. Then it dawned on me that he had met several newspaper men. I put him next to the joke and he thanked me, with a sheepish grin."

"Another thing that struck me as being rather funny was a request made by a country constituent of mine," continued Joy. "I got a letter from him one morning, and after he had inquired about my health and the health of the family, he came to his request. He wanted me to send him a package of Battle-Ax tobacco seed. I wrote him and told him that I had never received any samples of that brand as yet. I never did find out whether he was joking or not."

In Early Days.

From the Kansas City Star.

In Missouri's earlier days a large share of the Legislature's time was taken up in settling matters that are now referred to local authorities. The Legislature of 1837 passed an act which declared that Sallie Lipscomb of Buchanan County should be divorced from her husband, Edward Lipscomb of Buchanan County, because he had been cruel to her and driven her out of the house, besides subjecting her to many other indignities. The same Legislature passed an act providing that Mrs. Parmelia Hinkson of Madison County might remarry, although her husband, who had disappeared, had been gone but four years. Under the law in force when he would legally be considered dead after an absence of seven years.

A PROOF READER, anent the importance of trifles, read from his notebook these absurd sentences, each made absurd by the omission of a single letter:

"The conflict was dreadful and the enemy was repulsed with great laughter.

"When the President's wife entered the humble sitting room of the mine she was politely offered a hair.

"A man was yesterday arrested on the charge of having eaten a cabman for demanding more than his fare.

"An employe in the service of the Government was accused of having stolen a small ox from the mail. The stolen property was found in his vest pocket.

"The Russian soldier, Kachinoffaskewcky, was found dead with a long word sticking in his throat."

That's the Idea.

JUST SHOPPING

The shades of night were falling fast,
As through a bargain store there passed
A maid, who'd lingered till the last,
Just shopping.
Her mien was sad, her face looked worn;
Her hat was crushed, her dress was torn.
She'd jostled there since early morn,
Just shopping.
"Oh, stay," the salesgirl said, "and see
This lovely silk at forty-three
A yard." She answered, "None for me,
I'm shopping."
"Mount not the stairs," floorwalkers said,
"The elevator's just ahead;"
But up she crawled with lagging tread,
Just shopping.
At 6 o'clock, as homeward went
The saleswoman, on pleasure bent,
They left her there by accident,
Still shopping.
A watchman making, late, his round
Was scared by an unwonted sound;
On the third floor the maid he found,
Just shopping.
There, in the twilight cold and gray,
Sauntered the maid, who'd shopped all day,
And nothing bought to take away—
Still shopping.

THE JARR FAMILY

Eavesdropping for the Post-Dispatch By Roy L. McCardell.

THEY DISCUSS ANTIQUE EGGS.

"BY George, this is the third bad egg I've had this week!" exclaimed Mr. Jarr, angrily, "I should think, Clara, that you might pay a little attention to what you buy!"

"I pay a good deal of money for what I buy!" replied Mrs. Jarr. "I pay the highest prices for everything, because everything is so high! And if you don't like the way I run the house, you can run it yourself!"

"I'm not talking about the way you run your house, or what you pay for things, but at least you might buy eggs fit to eat. This is the third time this week my breakfast has been spoiled by a bad egg."

"It appears all right to me," replied Mrs. Jarr. "I think it's just your imagination!"

"Does my imagination taste like that?" asked Mr. Jarr.

"Well, if it isn't your imagination, it's indigestion, and I think you should be ashamed of yourself starting in at me this way the first thing in the morning!"

"Am I a serf or a slave?" demanded Mr. Jarr, "that I am not allowed to object to a bad egg?"

"Those eggs are not bad. My grocer tells me he has been getting them from the same farmer for five years," said Mrs. Jarr, tearfully.

"Well, this is one of the first lot he bought:" snapped Mr. Jarr.

Mrs. Jarr arose from the table. "I just can't stand it any longer!" she sobbed. "What do I get out of life? I hear nothing from morning till night but harsh words from you!"

"Aw, sit down," said Mr. Jarr. What have you got to be sore about? You didn't get the egg!"

"No," said Mrs. Jarr, sadly, "I didn't get an egg, but I got a husband I thought was a gentleman!"

"And he turned out a bad egg, eh?" asked Mr. Jarr in a more pleasing tone. "Now, sit down, Clara, and give me some more coffee. I'm sorry if I said anything, but you know to get a bad soft-boiled egg—well, the least said about it the better!"

"The least said about a good many things the better," replied Mrs. Jarr, resuming her seat, but not yet prepared to display a flag of truce.

"Tut, tut, Clara!" said Mr. Jarr. "Why, I didn't say a word, except to kick"—

"You're always kicking," said Mrs. Jarr, "and the habit is growing on you. You don't know how it sounds, and you don't care. I have no one to comfort me or console me, and if I had I would scorn to tell my private affairs!"

"Of course not!" said Mr. Jarr. "Nobody does that."

"O, they don't, don't they?" replied Mrs. Jarr. "Well, you should hear what I hear. If you knew the women that come to me and tell me how their husbands treat them! I'd have more pride. If I was ill-treated I'd leave, and I wouldn't be all the time talking about it, either."

"Well, cheer up, then," said Mr. Jarr, "if you are not going to denounce me or desert me, all is well. It's a nice morning. Walk to the corner with me."

Mrs. Jarr did so, and on her way back she dropped in to see her friend, Mrs. Sope.

"How are you feeling, dear?" asked Mrs. Sope.

"My health is fairly good," answered Mrs. Jarr, "but I do declare Mr. Jarr is getting so cross that life is unbearable with him!"

And then the two ladies sat down and recounted what they suffered at the hands of the tyrant husband.

Head, Body and Legs.

This is a game that will afford much amusement. Though it is a drawing game, yet it does not require that the players be artists, or even be able to draw very well. Just to manage to scrawl some distant resemblance to a living creature is sufficient; in fact, the worse the drawing of the several parts the more amusing is usually the result of the whole. This is the method:

The players sit around a table, each with a half sheet of paper folded into three, and a pencil. Each draws a head—of man, bird, beast or fish—according to his fancy, on the upper third of the paper, carrying the lines of the neck a little over the fold as a guide to the next artist, and turns it over and passes it to the lefthand neighbor.

Each then, on the new paper, draws a body, working from the lines of the neck above mentioned, but, of course, in perfect ignorance of the sort of head belonging thereto, and carries the lines over the fold as before, doubles down the paper and passes it to the left.

Each one, now working from these lines, attaches a pair of legs, the more eccentric the better, to the unknown body. The papers are then passed to the chairman, who opens and displays them for public inspection.

The combinations are extraordinary and often call forth shouts of laughter.

Running the Road.

From the Pittsburg Press.

"Where's the president of this railroad?" asked the man who called at the general offices.

"He's down in Washington attendin' th' sessions o' some kind uv an investigatin' committee," replied the office boy.

"Where's the general manager?"

"He's appearin' before th' Interstate Commerce Commission."

"Well, where's the general superintendent?"

"He's at th' meeting o' th' Legislature, fightin' some new law."

"Where's the head of the leal department?"

"He's in court tryin' a suit."

"Then where's the general passenger agent?"

"He's explainin' t' th' commercial travelers why he can't reduce th' fare."

"Where is the general freight agent?"

"He's gone out in th' country t' attend a meetin' o' th' grange an' tell th' farmers why we ain't got no freight cars."

"Who's running the blame railroad, anyway?"

"Th' newspapers."

LITTLE MISS MUFFET

Being the Truthful Tale of a Young Woman Famous in Make-Believe History, and Written for the Post-Dispatch

By Margaret Rolfe.

LITTLE MISS MUFFET swept haughtily into the restaurant and ordered a bowl of "Coerce." She had been very careless about spending her salary lately, and only had a little loose change left. However, she believed implicitly that it pays to put on a good front (why shouldn't she, since she was the prize cloak model at McAyty's) and that a bowl of "Coerce" in Hector's is worth a steak smothered in onions at Blink's.

Miss Muffet devoted herself industriously to the mastication of her bowl of pulverized husks, all the time keeping her eyes modestly cast down, in order to observe closely every one who came in. It wasn't long before she sighted a fat octopus of a party with a prosperous Pittsburg appearance and a generous openwork face.

The minute the "spider" Miss Muffet—perhaps the effect of the near-food she had been eating—put on a near-imitation of the smile that won't come off. Immediately the bread boy drew up at her table, whereupon Miss Muffet blushed rather neatly and brokenly said:

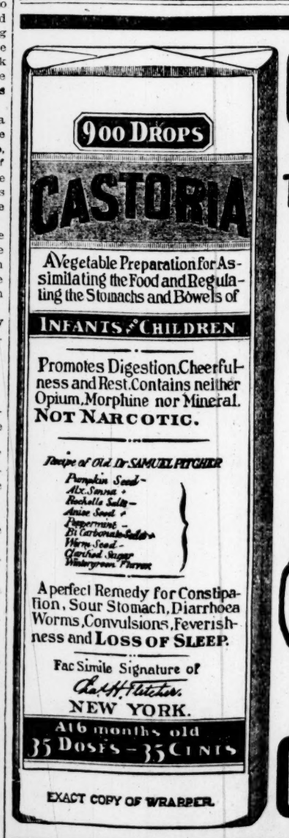

"Oh, excuse me, sir. I thought you were somebody else."

"Well, so I am," beamed the prosperous party, who was easy, "and now that we are such old friends why not have lunch together?"

Whereupon he sat down beside her.

But if you think it frightened Miss Muffet away you'd best do an encore cogitation. This cruel aspersion anent her timidity is only an erroneous and garbled misstatement on the part of a false historian. Miss Muffet did no such thing. Instead, she pushed her bowl of "Coerce" hastily aside and ordered all the real food on the menu, from consomme to protoids, and a bottle of fussy bubbles water besides.

Then, being an economical and careful young girl, with always a weather eye on the future, Miss Muffet promptly annexed the fat old party as a perpetual meal ticket, and they all ate heartily ever afterward.

Remarkable Story of How Terry McGovern, Penniless Today, Went Through $203,200, His Prize-Ring Earnings, in a Few Years

Little Fighter, Best of His Time, Spent Fortunes Made With His Fists Trying to Do Right Thing.

LOST THOUSANDS TRYING TO AID MOTHER AND BROTHER

HAS Terry McGovern any money today? If not, how did he go through the thousands he must have earned during his great ring career? Did he spend it in dissipation? Did the racetracks get it? Questions of this kind have often been asked with no satisfactory answers. The Post-Dispatch decided to investigate and, with the assistance of Sam H. Harris, McGovern's original manager, and Joe Humphries, who managed the great little fighter during the last years of his ring career, we are able to give in facts and figures the story of how McGovern let hundreds of thousands slip through his fingers. To compile the accompanying tables of McGovern's earnings and expenditures, Messrs. Harris and Humphries went through old bookkeeping accounts covering 10 years of McGovern's life with the result that nothing could be more official and exact.

McGovern, the most modest of all living prize-fighters, disposed of $2[illegible] in eleven years. Today he hasn't a cent in the world. His money-making ability is gone, his real estate is heavily mortgaged, and but for the generosity of his friends the insurance policy on his life for $10,000 would lapse for non-payment of premiums. McGovern's family, consisting of a wife and child, are penniless. With them it has become a serious struggle to live. Where dollars to them formerly represented a mere sip of paper, dimes are today sources of serious concern.

How McGovern Started.

Eleven years ago an industrious little lad was seated on a rickety old wagon attached to a more rickety horse, and driving through rain and snow, peddled vegetables through the streets of Brooklyn. Up to that time his earnings since his birth hadn't reached $10 a week.

And today this same little boy is incurably insane, after earning more than $200,000. He has disposed of every cent of it. Generous-hearted friends are preparing to give a great benefit performance that his family may live and that he may spend in comfort his declining days in a sanitarium.

Briefly that is the story of the life of Terry McGovern.

Now, how did this modest little prize-fighter rid himself of that immense sum of money?

Without a Cent Today.

Notwithstanding all stories to the contrary, Terry McGovern today is penniless. His immense fortune is gone. His wife and child are struggling to earn a living. The fighter himself is in a private sanitarium in Connecticut, and the bills for his care and treatment are met by friends who profited by McGovern's victories in the days when his career reached its zenith.

A compilation of figures from records held by McGovern's former managers show that he earned in the ten years of his fighting career $203,200. Until Sam Harris became his manager Terry had probably earned not more than $1500 in small fights around New York and Brooklyn. It is likely, too, that he earned a few thousand dollars more than the records can establish in private bets made on his fights, but as those figures cannot be touched with any degree of accuracy they are eliminated.

Spent All of $203,000.

As McGovern is financially a bankrupt today records show that he must have spent his entire fortune of $203,200. While it may seem easy to dispose of that much money it is a task which few boys reared in humble surroundings could accomplish unless he took to "wine, women and song." This McGovern never did. In the latter days he did drink to a certain extent, but Joe Humphries says Terry never spent as much as $200 for wine in his life. As to women he walked the straight and narrow path. He was devoted to his wife and children and many believe that the unfortunate death of his little boy was the first of many events which finally undermined his reason. His heart was set on this little fellow, and for months after his death Terry was morose and sad and at times drank heavily. He didn't do this drinking on Broadway, but tried to drown his sorrow in the dark corner of a little saloon in Brooklyn. He never yearned for a reputation as a spendthrift or a "sport."

McGovern's sole ambition, when he began his fighting career, seemed to be the uplifting of his family. He was a dutiful son, and his constant devotion to his old mother was one of the brightest lights that ever crept into the prize ring. As soon as he had looked out on the world beyond Brooklyn he realized that his humble family had not been so favored with education and refined influences as had others, and he manfully started out to repair the difficulty.

All Terry's early and disastrous expenditures were intended to help his family. The thousands of dollars he threw away on the racetrack were originally intended at the beginning of a plan to make his brother, Hughey, a jockey, that he might also turn money into the family coffers. McGovern imagined that his brothers could do anything and that all they needed was a start. He furnished the start, but the ending was always disastrous Started His Mother in Business.

When McGovern had made his first $5000 he promptly invested $1000 in a vegetable and green grocery store for his mother. This proved a failure. He then spent $1100 in the purchase of a peddling outfit for his brothers, Hughey and Phil. Here another failure was recorded.

In the meantime Terry had become the idol of the ring and riches were being showered upon him. Another $20,000 had come into his possession and in his innocent way he started out to invest it where it would do the most good. He promptly purchased a house at the cost of $15,000, including the furnishings, that his wife might be comfortable and his children raised in the proper surroundings. His love for his wife was not so great, however, that he could forget the mother, and he purchased a house for her at a cost of $4000. He then invested $2500 in vacant lots in Avenue U and the Boulevard. These still stand in the name of his family, but they are so heavily mortgaged that redemption seems almost impossible.

Money continued to roll in and McGovern continued to dispose of it. He invested $5000 in a saloon in Brooklyn which proved a total loss. As an instance of the lackof business knowledge, Black Griffo, a negro pugilist, was engaged to attend bar and this helped to kill the business.

Terry's next venture was the establishment of a social institution called the Terry McGovern Club. In this he invested $2500, but as soon as his popularity waned his friends deserted him and the clubrooms were left cold and bare. No one would pay dues and the money invested was a total loss. He then intrusted $1500 to the care of a friend and the supposed friend decamped with the money and has never been seen since.

At this time Terry had been fighting for three years and he still had a large account in the bank. He began lending money to friends, but in his ignorance of business methods never even kept a tab of these amounts, which finally aggregated something like $15,000. As his mind is a blank today there is no way of collecting these loans.

Spent Money on Newsboys.

Having seen the difficulties he labored under before the beginning of his fighting career Terry began the giving of dinners all over the country to newsboys. He was at once the idol of every street urchin in America. In this way he spent $5000.

As McGovern was a modest liver at home, Mr. Harris estimates that his living expenses, as he had no rent to pay, did not run over $2500. Ten years would make this amount $25,000. Still that is a mere bagatelle to the amount he disposed of.

He bought diamonds, too, in quantities for himself and his wife. One instance is mentioned to show his desire for diamonds. He had left home early in the day promising to return by noon. Something delayed him until 3 o'clock, and according to the little fighter's idea he had to bring home a "squarer." Terry got the "squarer" right away. It was a heart-shaped locket covered with diamonds, and cost something like $1000. No one knows what became of the diamond collection.

His Racing Ventures.

McGovern's real spending ability did not discloses itself until after the death of his little boy and that was the beginning of his mental decay.

He conceived the idea of making his brother a jockey, and the stories of his turf speculations filled the newspapers for weeks. To begin with he purchased the horse Ocklawaha and selected purple and green for his racing colors. Following this he bought Cincinnatus, Saturday, One-Eyed Connolly and Spring Beauty. For these horses he paid $15,000 and engaged a coterie of trainers, jockeys and stable boys, for which he paid $12,000 a year for two years. Having the utmost confidence in his judgment of racehorses. Terry bet on his entries and lost in this way $20,000. He was a good thing for the bookmakers. His racing stable failed and Phillie did not become a jockey. The investment of $59,000 had proved a total loss.

Not the least discouraged, Terry earned more money in the ring and started out to back a book at the racetrack. He reasoned that if the bookies beat him he could take the bookmakers' end and beat others. Here his judgment was wrong again. His losses in laying odds amounted to $25,000 and that was abandoned.

Losses Began to Tell on Him.

These heavy strains on his finances began to tell and the real estate was mortgaged. It has never been redeemed. The money secured in this way went in the same way. Mr. Harris and Mr. Humphries have failed absolutely to account for $16,000 of the money spent.

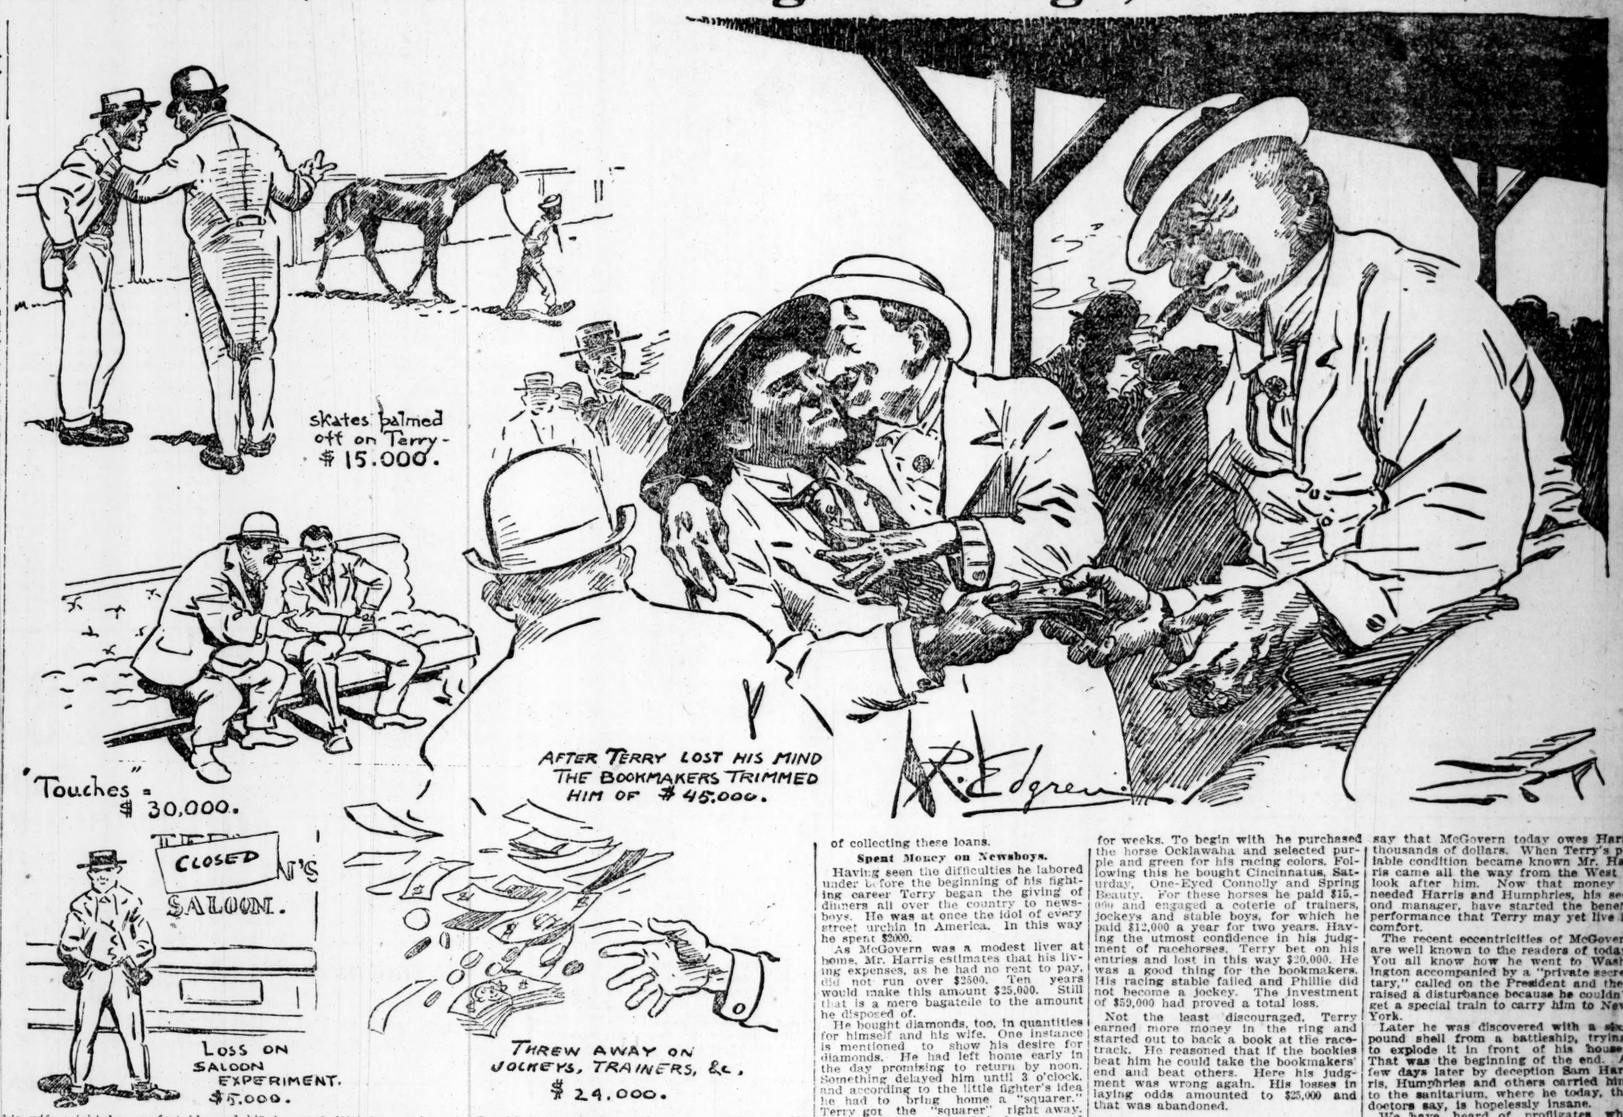

During all this time Harris stuck to his little champion, and though he will not admit it, intimate friends of the two say that McGovern today owes Harris thousands of dollars. When Terry's pitiable condition became known Mr. Harris came all the way from the West to look after him. Now that money is needed Harris and Humphries, his second manager, have started the benefit performance that Terry may yet live in comfort.

The recent eccentricities of McGovern are well known to the readers of today. You all know how he went to Washington accompanied by a "private secretary," called on the President and then raised a disturbance because he couldn't get a special train to carry him to New York.

Later he was discovered with a six-pound shell from a battleship, trying to explode it in front of his house. That was the beginning of the end. A few days later by deception Sam Harris, Humphries and others carried him to the sanitarium, where he today, the doctors say, is hopelessly insane.

We have heard of profligates who spent fortunes in riotous living, but little Terry McGovern presents the remarkable instance of an uncultured boy disposing of a fortune trying to do what he thought was right.

The Sunday Post-Dispatch has over ONE-HALF MILLION more readers than any other newspaper west of the Mississippi.

M'CARTHY LANDS KNOCKOUT PUNCH

Leslie Dye Put to the Floor in Second Round of Bout at Olympic A. C.

JACOBSON IS OUT OF IT

In spite of the fact that Bob Douglass expected Wednesday afternoon that he would be able to put on half of the 12 bouts he had arranged for the second night of the Olympic A. C. amateur tournament at Lemp's Park Hall last night he was only able to scrape together three contests, the other men failing to show up or refusing to go on.

Easily the feature bout of the evening was the final in the 125-pound class in which Barney McCarthy knocked out Leslie Dye of the Crescent A. C. in the second round. McCarthy had gained a previous decision over Dye and simply had the Indian sign on his opponent. Last Saturday night Dye defeated Oscar Bender, a stronger and much more aggressive boxer than McCarthy. Last night McCarthy simply chased Dye about the ring for a good portion of the first round. He finally dropped Dye with a punch to the jaw which ended the round. In the second round Barney's right again made connection and the Crescent A. C. man went down and out.

Sam Rosengren defeated Pierce Matthews in a bout at 135-pounds. Both boys were willing and managed to stand up under considerable punishment. The bout was even at the end of the third round and the judges ordered an extra two-minute round. Rosengren was the aggressor and was given the decision.

R. Englert, a 100-pound boy who was being boosted as a coming champion by a number of good judges of boxing, missed out in the final of that class when he bumped into Harry Bode of the St. Ann's A. A. Both youngsters went after each other like game bantam roosters. It was a close and interesting bout throughout, but Bode earned the decision which he received at the end of the third round.

Leo Jacobson, the boy who fought a professional fight on the river and was then allowed to enter the tournament and after an amateur Tuesday night did not compete last night. He claimed that he had broken his hand.

Efforts were made to have Monte Dale of the Crescent A. C. and Oliver Kirk of the M. A. C. meet in their special bout at 125 pounds last night. Dale refused, as he stated that he was told that he was to box Friday night. Kirk declared that he would not box Friday night. He will probably change his mind by that time as Oliver is anxious to trim Dale, who at present holds the W. A. A. U. 125-pound title. The members of the Crescent Club have quite a bundle of money that they will wager on Dale, which is sure to be taken up by Kirk's friends so that a hot bout may be expected.

CHOYNSKI TRAINS ILLINOIS BOXERS

Good Material Is Preparing for Dual Meet With M. A. C. Jan. 26.

SULLIVAN GETS BUSY

Joe Choynski, one of the cleverest big men that ever put on a boxing glove, is training and preparing the New Illinois A. C. boxing team for the dual met with the Missouri A. C. sparrers, which will occur in the M. A. C. gymnasium Jan. 26.

Choynski has been engaged as boxing instructor of the New Illinois A. C., according to Harry Gilmore Jr. of Chicago, a profesional boxer and handler of pugilists, who was in St. Louis yesterday.

Choynski fought the best of the heavyweights in his day, which was during the time when boxing was in its prime and big bouts were of almost nightly occurrence in New York. Choynski has the material at the New Illinois A. C., and as it will be his first chance to show his worth as a boxing instructor he is bound to work hard with his men to get them in the best of condition to meet the wearers of the Cherry Diamond.

Tommy Sullivan, boxing instructor of the Missouri A. C., will also get a hustle on himself when he learns that Choynski is boxing with the Chicago men. Last year the New Illinois A. C. men won the tournament from the M. A. C. by a margin of one bout out of five.

STATE TOURNEY NEXT ON SLATE

Teams Now Leading the City Meet Will Head the List of Entries.

DOE RUN BOWLERS IN

These are indeed strenuous times for the St. Louis ten pin bowlers. The Missouri State tourney is now attracting the attention. The local bowlers have worked for weeks getting their city association in trim and as soon as the first ball was rolled down the alley in the city tournament they turned their attention to the state meeting. St. Louis will make a bid for the state tournament for next year and there is not a doubt but Kansas City, St. Joseph, Doe Run and other strongholds look with favor on it.

The crack Duffy team, now leading the city tourney with a 2775 score for the city championship, will contend for state honors. There will be two teams representing the De Soto alleys. The De Soto No. 1 is a very strong team and will closely second if not lead the Duffys in the battle at Kansas City, February 10-16. A team representing the Palace alleys, with Jule Schmidt heading it, will surely make the trip. The Fern Glens, Sportsman, Old Lynch Ryes, Cannes, Wagners and Christians, are other teams that will probably enter.

HARVARD SEVERS TIES WITH YALE

The Crimson Officially Announces Athletic Agreements Are Broken.

FOOTBALL IS UNSETTLED

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. Jan. 17.—Harvard officially announced today that she had broken her athletic agreement with Yale which called for annual meetings between the Crimson and Blue in the four major sports of football, rowing, baseball and track athletics.

The agreement ran for periods of two years, but at the end of each of these periods it was self resuming unless notice to the contrary was given by one of the parties at least six weeks before the expiration of the term. One of these two-year periods would have expired on the 15th of next March.

Harvard gave Yale as her reason the fact that the Harvard overseers had forbidden the Crimson Athletic Committee to make arrangements for intercollegiate athletic contests after the 1st of December, 1906. Permission has been given the crew, baseball nine and track team to meet Yale this coming spring and these contests will take place. This leaves Harvard and Yale with no definite athletic agreement, and makes a break between the two in football all the more likely. In fact, it is taken in many quarters as a strong indication that there will be no football games between the Crimson and the Blue next fall.

NEW TWO-MAN RECORD

Grohms and Kunz came down the line in the city tourney Wednesday night with a total of 1172 pins, breaking the record previously made by Schowalter and Krost of 1160. Of these, Grohms secured a total of 499 and Kunz a total of 499. Other teams are coming strong, and, as these scores have been surpassed by teams scheduled to bowl, new figures will doubtless displace the old ones before the week closes.

BITS OF SPORT FOR HURRIED READERS

LLOYD JEVNE, champion three-cushion player, defeated Charley Noland in the Grand professional handicap three-cushion billiard tournament match last night by a score of 25 to 15, and established a new world's record for a high average for 25 points, with 1.38. Jevne's high run was 5. In the afternoon game Thomas Hueston defeated Frank Day by a score of 23 to 22. Hueston being allowed a 2-point handicap on his opponent. Hueston averaged .85. Lean plays Day this afternoon, while Horgan and Hueston will meet in the evening match.

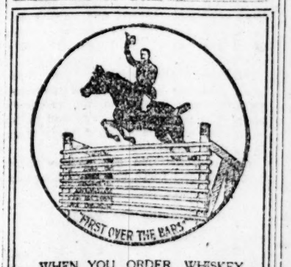

CLEO BUTTS, who won the one-mile preliminary roller-skating race at the Crescent Rink last night, claims the world's record, his time for the mile being 2:48. Cookson recently skated a mile in 2:56, which the Englishman claimed as the record.

THE MISSOURI A. C. basket-ball team defeated the St. Louis University independents in a game in the Missouri A. C. gymnasium last night by a score of 32 to 15.

EDWARD AND JOSEPH, young sons of Jahn E. Madder, the noted turfman, have been set up into the trotting horse business by their father. He has given them the Kentucky Futurity winner Silliko and the 3-year-old brother of Silliko for stallions, and bought for them, through Joan Splan, 11 high-class brood mares of the celebrated Letburn family of P. P. Parish, Midway, Ky. The price paid has not been divulged. Madder has also presented his sons for their breeding stud the champion saddle stallion, Chance.

CY FLYNN of Buffalo knocked out Billy Butler of Cleveland after two minutes of fighting in the twelfth round at Erie, Pa., last night. He received a left jab on the jaw, followed by a right swing on the jaw that reeled the Cleveland boy. Instead of rushing to a clinch he stood up and a right swing, flush on the jaw, sent Butler's pugilistic aspirations into dreamland. As Butler fell flat on his face in the middle of the ring and Ed McKean slowly counted the seconds that sent him back to retirement, he vainly tried to arise on the count of nine, but did not have the strength. Just as he was counted out he was able to rise to his feet. Flynn was the first to lift him up and Butler thought the fighting was still on and he wanted to continue, but was carried to his corner by Flynn and Bert Wing, his second, where he collapsed. A big crowd attended the fight.

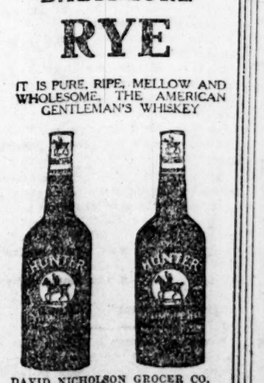

THE CENTRAL High and Smith Academy basket-ball teams will meet in their annual Interscholastic League game at Louisiana Hall this afternoon. There is not much interest in the contest, for the reason that the Academy team is weak, and is not even credited with a chance to win.

LIVE WIRES KILL TWO IN ALLEYS

Bundle of Copper Wire Found Near Body of Young Teamster.

Two men were electrocuted by live wires, broken by the heavy sleet, as told in late editions of Wednesday's Post-Dispatch.

John O'Keefe, 30 years old, was killed by taking hold of a wire in an alley east of Beaumont street, between Pine street and Lawton avenue. A current of 1000 volts passed through his body, and his back, arms and hands were burned. His hands were released from their clutch on the wire by George Startzman, a lineman, and James McAnany, engineer of the Polar Wave Ice Co. He lived with his parents at 2329 Eugenia street.

The second victim of a dangling wire was Sidney Murphy, 21 years old, a teamster, of 4068 Easton avenue. Policemen found his body in an alley in the rear of 4056 St. Louis avenue. Murphy had been seen following linemen at work and it is thought he touched the live wire in the belief that it was a discarded scrap. A bundle of copper wire lay near his body. No witness to his death has been found. Murphy leaves a widowed mother, who lives at 4052 Cozens avenue.

SNATCHED HAT OFF ROBBER'S HEAD

Mrs. Ella Blackhead Obtained Clew in Brave Fight With a Robber.

WAS KNOCKED DOWN

Holdup Man Took Fright at Her Resistance and Screams and Fled.

Mrs. Ella Blackhead of 3155 Bell avenue, attacked by a highwayman on Lucas avenue, beat him off and snatched his cap from his head. He knocked her down and ran. She hunted up a policeman and turned the cap over to him and search is being made for the owner.

Mrs. Blackhead, who is a widow 59 years old, was walking west on Lucas avenue between Twenty-third street and Jefferson avenue at 6 p. m. Wednesday when a man sprang out in front of her from a place of concealment and tried to grab her purse.

She struggled and struck him with her fists and creamed for help. Snatching his cap, which was drawn down over his eyes, she pulled it from his head. Fearing that help would come and that Mrs. Blackhead would get such a good look at his features that she would be able to identify him, the man struck her in the face with his fist and knocked her down and ran east to Twenty-third street and north on that street and escaped.

Mrs. Blackhead was dazed by the blow, but she picked up the cap and hunted until she found a policeman and turned it over to him and gave him the best description she could of the robber. The cap is now held at the Dayton Street Police Station to be used as evidence if the owner is arrested and the police are looking for him.

LID BROKE HIS HEALTH.

Brewery Manager Worried by Sunday Law Enforcement.

The condition of Joseph F. Traunmiller of 4355 West Pine boulevard, manager of the Excelsior Brewing Co., who has been suffering at St. Vincent's Sanitarium, is said to be improving.

Mrs. Traunmiller said that her husband's illness was caused by worry resulting from the strict enforcement of the Sunday closing law. He was in constant fear that the men in charge of the saloons controlled by the brewery might violate the law and cause trouble. During the first of the month, when new licenses had to be taken out, his nervousness increased, and he was sent to the hospital last Friday.

ST. LOUISANS IN JAMAICA.

Little Fear Felt for Smiths and Dexter Tiffany.

Three St. Louisans, Mr. and Mrs. Irwin Z. Smith and Dexter Tiffany, will be among the first American tourists to see the ruins of Kingston, Jamaica, which was visited by an earthquake Monday.

The three left Philadelphia on the steamer Admiral Farragut last Thursday. They were due to arrive Monday at Port Antonio, on the northern side of the Island of Jamaica. The port is separated from Kingston by a mountain range, and was not affected by the earthquake. The party had planned to remain there for a week before going to Kingston, on the southern side of the Island. Relatives in St. Louis do not regard it as possible that they changed their plans before the earthquake.

Mr. Smith is a son-in-law of Charles H. Bailey, with whom he resides when in St. Louis at 87 Vandeventer place. Mr. Tiffany, who is a cousin of Mr. Smith, lives at 72 Vandeventer place.

BURTON AGAIN OPPOSES.

No Increase for River at St. Louis, Says Chairman.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—On the ground that nothing must be done with the Mississippi River between St. Louis and Cairo until the deep waterway project is disposed of, Chairman Burton of the House River and Harbors Committee has declined to increase the appropriation for that stretch of the river in the forthcoming river bill.

Mr. Burton told a new subcommittee which he appointed that his proposition was to appropriate $250,000 a year for four years for the St. Louis-Cairo stretch. In the absence of Mr. Lorimer of Illinois, Chairman Burton organized this subcommittee: Ellis of Kansas City, Davidson of Minnesota, Bishop of Michigan and Blankhead of Alabama. Mr. Burton doubtless will be sustained by every member of the subcommittee except Mr. Ellis, who supports the St. Louis business men's contention for a $1,000,000 appropriation annually for the Cairo-St. Louis stretch of the river.

HUSTLE!

Don't fret if things go wrong today,
They'll come all right tomorrow,
A time of joy, the wise men say,
Will follow every sorrow.
If you have failed, don't sit and mourn,
Just get to work and hustle,
Success is sure to come in time,
To active brain and muscle.

The man who mopes, and frets and pines,
Will never be a winner,
He's in great luck if every day
He gets a decent dinner.
The sought-for secret of success
I'll tell you, on the level;
Just hustle; hustle; that's the way
To circumvent the devil.

SAVES DIMES FOR YEARS AND GIVES ALL TO MISSIONS

Mrs. Emma Shirley, a Widow, Accumulates $1000, Ten Cents at a Time, and Donates Fund to Pay Expenses of "Bible Woman" in Japan—"Fun Saving It," She Declares.

BY saving all her dimes for 12 years Mrs. Emma S. Shirley of 2110 Eugenia street, a widow, has accumulated $1000, which she has donated to the Methodist Board of Foreign Missions to endow a woman missionary to Japan. The entire sum was made up of dimes, except a small part added from the proceeds of boarding World's Fair visitors.

Mrs. Shirley conducts boarding houses at 2030 and at 2110 Eugenia street. Her husband has been dead two years. She is a member of Centenary M. E. Church, South, and says that the idea of her giving her dime fund to foreign missions first came to her in November, when she heard Rev. Dr. Wainwright, president of the Methodist Missionary College in Tokio, tell of the needs of the Christian workers in Japan. She made the donation last Friday.

Mrs. Shirley spoke reluctantly of her generosity when seen by a Post-Dispatch reporter Thursday. "It is nothing to be commended for," she said. "My late husband did as much in accumulating the sum as I did. Besides neither of us deprived ourselves of anything. I put only dimes into the fund and did not suffer a single privation. We do not sacrifice ourselves very much in this country, I think.

Was Fun Saving Dimes.

"It was about 12 years ago that I first thought of saving all the dimes. My husband, who had been with an express company in St. Louis 18 years old, had been hurt and instead of returning to his old position took up the management of two boarding houses for mail clerks. I have since his death kept up the business. I collected the bills for him and one day he laughingly said that he would give me all the dimes he received if I would give him the entire amounts of the collections. He said it as a joke, but we formed the habit of saving every dime. He gave me every dime he received. One day we were going down town together and Mr. Shirley handed the conductor a dollar. He received 9 dimes in change and immediately gave them to me. We used to have a good many laughs over incidents like that. It was lots of fun saving that $1000.

"In 1904 the dime fund was nearly $1000 and Mr. Shirley gave me enough to make the $1000 complete. It has been on time deposit since then. After it first began to grow I just couldn't spend it. I never felt satisfied about getting rid of it in any way except when I decided to give it to the missionary cause.

"I heard Dr. Wainwright tell of the need of Bible women in Japan. Men missionaries there are not permitted by the customs of the country to visit the women and children at their homes and Bible women are needed to do this."

Mrs. Shirley is also paying for the schooling this year of a young woman missionary student at Marvin Collegiate Institute at Fredericktown, Mo. She has also furnished a room to be given free to a missionary student in another institution. She came to America from Sweden when quite young. Her mother, who does not speak English, lives with her.

Mrs. Shirley says she follows John Wesley's motto:

"Make all you can. Save all you can. Give all you can."

DESMOND IS LOST IN CITY STREETS

Went in Sarch of a Hospital and Found the River.

Chief of Detectives Desmond had a narrow escape from driving into the Mississippi river Wednesday afternoon. He was not looking for a clew. He was in search of a hospital.

With William McCarty, secretary to Chief Creecy, where Desmond started to drive to the Lutheran Hospital, Ohio and Potomac streets, where Creecy is confined with rheumatism. The journey proceeded without incident to Russell avenue and Twenty-third streets, when a policeman beckoned the Chief to turn back because of a "live" wire. The Chief took a side street for a couple of blocks and then turned in an easterly direction instead of west in the direction of the hospital. McCarty thought the Chief had made a mistake and called the latter's attention to it, but Desmond kept on.

"I guess I know where I'm going," said Desmond. "I know South St. Louis like a book. I could drive to that hospital with my eyes shut."

"All right," said McCarty. "We'll soon find out."

As they drove east on Arsenal street McCarty noticed that the block numbers were getting smaller every minute, which indicated that they were going in the direction of the river, and he called Desmond's attention to the fact.

"Don't worry," said Desmond. "We'll get there all right. I know where I'm going. The numbers don't run the same down here as they do in North St. Louis."

Soon the towers of a big brewery began to loom up and again McCarty notified Desmond they were going in the wrong direction.

"You're getting turned around, Mac," said Desmond, laughing. "That ain't the brewery. That's a church."

Sure, He Was Right.

The drive continued, and as the moments sped by McCarty got more and more nervous until he was on the verge of grabbing the lines from Desmond's hands.

"I tell you you're going in the wrong direction, Chief," he said. "And the first thing you know we'll both land in the river. We're going east and we ought to be going west."

"You're mistaken, Mac," said Desmond. "We're going south, and that's the way we ought to be going."

Presently they drove across Broadway.

"Now, what did I tell you?" yelled McCarty. "Here's Broadway and we ought to be out near Grand avenue somewhere."

"What's the matter with you, anyway, Mac?" said Desmond. "Don't you know that Broadway circles towards the west in South St. Louis, the same as it does up on the North Side?"

"Yes, and don't you know that the river circles in the same direction as Broadway?"

"What's the difference. We can't prevent the river from circling, can we?"

"No, but we're going east instead of west, all the same. If the sun was only out I'd prove to you that you're off your compass. You know the sun sets in the west, and if it was out it would be setting in back of the buggy right now."

Suddenly Desmond pulled his horse up with a start.

"What's that ahead of us, Mac? Is it ice?"

"No, it's the river," said Mac peevishly. "Now do you believe me when I say you're going wrong?"

"Gee, that is the river," said Desmond. "I wonder if it's changed its course."

"No it hasn't changed its course. You'd better change ours, though, or we'll both be floaters in the morning."

"I guess we'll just turn south on Broadway then," said Desmond and see where that takes us to."

They turned south and in a few minutes pulled up at the back door of the hospital.

"Well, I'll be doggoned," said Desmond as they jumped out. "How did we get here anyway?"

"You can search me," said McCarty. "I know we took the wrong direction, though."

TO PRACTICE ON CONVICTS.

Gov. Cutler Would Employ Dental Applicants.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, Jan. 17.—It is probable that the Utah legislature now in session will enter a law permitting candidates for certificates as dentist to give practical demonstrations of their ability by operating on penitentiary convicts. Such recommendation is contained in the message of Gov. John C. Cutler. At the state prison opinion is divided as to the wisdom or justice of the proposed law.

Andrew Hopper, a bigamist, said today: "There ain't no show at all for the fellow who gets into this place. It's bad enough to wear the brand of a convict and have to do time for a few years, but to have young tooth doctors experiment on us is going too far. I'd rather be given the water cure or get a flogging two or three times a day."

The prisoners are not unanimous in their opinion. Abe Majors, who is serving a life term for murder, said: "Why not? We make socks and shoes and most everything else out here now. We ought as well to make dentists, too, only some folks might object because they are not union goods."

Charles Botha, another life prisoner, said: "I suppose such a law would benefit the students, but I'd rather face a spell of measles. We have 250 men here, which means about 8,000 teeth that need looking after. All these, with all the different kinds of aches and pains that teeth are heir to would give the dentists right smart practice."

ACID OF SUICIDE BURNS HIS BABY

Wife Knocks Cup From Husband's Hand as He Drinks, but Cannot Save Life.

"IT'S ALL RIGHT," HE SAYS

Drops of Acid, Flying From the Cup, Strike Cheek of Little Girl.

Drops of carbolic acid from the cup which Albert Elder drained to end his life struck and burned the rosy cheeks of his 4-year-old baby girl, Mabel, as Mrs. Elder knocked the cup from his lips Thursday at their home, 1309 Franklin avenue. A red blotch the size of a quarter and several smaller ones were burned on baby Mabel's cheek, where the acid struck.

Elder walked to the bed in the room after his wife had struck away the cup. He answered his wife's cries of alarm, saying, "It's all right. It's all right." He lay back on the bed. An ambulance was called, but he died before reaching the hospital.

Elder, his wife and little Mabel were in their room when Mrs. Elder noticed an odor of carbolic acid. Turning toward her husband, she saw a cup raised to his lips. With a cry she rushed toward him and struck the cup. As she did so the little one, alarmed by the commotion, ran toward her mother crying. Drops of acid from the cup hurling across the room struck her as she ran to her mother and father.

After aid had been summoned for Elder, Mrs. Elder took the child to a drug store and had an antidote applied to the burns.

Elder left a wife and one girl and three boys, the oldest being 17 years old. He had been out of work for several months because of ill health and his inability to work caused him to take his life, his family says. He was 48 years old. Until recently the family lived at 2641 Keokuk street.

BANK AND TRUST STOCK IN DEMAND

Commerce Firm Seller at 330—Mississippi Valley Higher at 312½ Traction Preferred Weaker at 77½—Active Session in Transactions—Generally Firmer Prices.

Bank issues and Traction stock and bonds were the feature at Thursday morning's session of the Stock Exchange when renewed activity in transactions was noticed.

The session opened with strong bidding for shares of Chicago Railway Equipment, and the market in a few minutes showed bids of 8.50@8.60 and as high as 8.80 asked. The bull element in this security was not satisfied, however, their position being that par is the correct figure for the shares. No sales were recorded in the early part of the session.

The brokers then centered on Bank of Commerce stock, which was supported firm at 330, at which figure there were free sales in 10 and 20 share lots, small lots selling at the same figure.

The bear brokers in traction securities went after United Railways 4-per-cent bonds first and found the market firm at 85. At these figures a few bonds were traded in. They found a slightly easier market in traction preferred and small lots sold at 77½. On fairly active trading the common stock of Railways sold at 43¼ unchanged from sales of Wednesday.

A restricted market in Century Building bonds yielded only a few transactions, but these were at better figures than the last sales. The Century Building bond sales this morning were at 107.

The close of the session was easier for Traction preferred and firm for trust and bank shares. The market on Chicago Railway Equipment was 8.65 bid, 8.67½ asked. On Commonwealth Trust 325 asked and on Mississippi Valley Trust 312½ bid.

FINANCIAL.

Messrs. George H. Burr & Co., commercial paper brokers, 304-5-9 Security Building, report local money: Indorsed bills receivable, 4 to 6 months, 6 per cent; high-grade and single-name paper, 4 to 6 months, 6 to 6½ per cent; other names, not so well known, 6½ per cent; call money on good security, 6 per cent. Market easier in tone, although demand for money continues good.

The whole country had its eyes on London today; much depended upon the Bank of England reducing its discount rate and the news of its action was influential everywhere. In St. Louis bankers reported the situation as quite satisfactory, with a further decrease in borrowing. It was said at one institution that some of the usual makers of paper were holding off in the expectation of lower rates before long. Whether or not their anticipations will be realized remains to be seen.

The directors of the National Biscuit Co. will meet about the middle of next month to declare the dividends on the preferred and common stocks. That an extra dividend will be declared on the common issue at that time can be stated definitely that there is good reason for believing that it will be at the same rate as last year, namely, 1 per cent, thus bringing the disbursement for the year on the common stock up to 5 per cent. The company pays regular quarterly dividends of 1 per cent on this issue and last year began the practice of declaring an extra one at the end of the fiscal year.

It is understood that the earnings of the company for the fiscal year ending Jan. 31 will show a considerable increase over those of the previous year, and, in fact, will be about the largest in the company's history. Knowledge of this has recently led to rumors that an extra dividend of 2 per cent would be declared upon the common stock, but up to this time the directors seem to be agreed that the better policy will be to declare only 1 per cent extra and action to that effect in all probability will be taken.

The Chicago office of N. W. Harris & Co. is about to be organized into a trust company under the name of the Harris Trust & Savings Bank, with a capital of $1,250,000 and surplus of $250,000, all of which has been subscribed. The partners of the firm of N. W. Harris & Co. will be the largest holders of stock, and associated with them as stockholders will be a number of the most prominent capitalists and business men of Chicago and the Central West.

The new concern will do a general trust, savings and deposit business and continue its extensive bond business in the West in close affiliation with the firm of N. W. Harris & Co., New York and Boston, who will continue the bond business in the East.

It is announced that the vacancy made by the resignation of Milton C. Roach as assistant general passenger agent of the New York Central Railroad, effective Jan. 15, will not be filled at once.

The activity and advance in price of shares of the Chicago Railway Equipment on the Stock Exchange is said to be due to the influence of certain St. Louis interests in the concern already conversant with the good showing to be made in the annual report of the earnings of the company, to be made in a few days.

The president and treasurer of the American Cotton Manufacturers' Association met the local committees in Philadelphia on Jan. 11, to arrange for the eleventh annual convention and exhibit to be held in Philadelphia, May 15 and 16, 1907, and arranged for the use of the First Regiment Armory for the exhibit and the Bellevue-Stratford Hotel for the headquarters of the convention. It is thought conservatively that there will be at least 2500 attendants at the convention, which will, no doubt, be the largest textile meeting ever held in America.

Injured in Boarding a Car.

James Mullen, 64 years old, unmarried, living at Eighth street and Franklin avenue, was struck by a Broadway car at Broadway and Elm street Thursday morning, while trying to board it. He was taken to the City Hospital, where it was found that his nose was broken, his face lacerated, a rib fractured and possibly his skull fractured also. His condition is serious.

HOGS—The moderate supply received was again of pretty fair quality, though not quite so good as yesterday. Some Southwestern kinds and lights were also included. The market opened 5c lower and on this basis trading for the best kind was fairly active, but inferior and light weight kind were rather slow sales.

Amalgamated Has Dividend.

NEW YORK, Jan. 17.—The directors of the Amalgamated Copper Co. today declared the regular quarterly dividend of 1½ per cent and an extra dividend of ½ of 1 per cent. This is unchanged from the last previous dividend.

WALL ST. STOCKS FIRM AND ACTIVE

Range of Fluctuations Not Wide—Borrowing Corporation Stocks Better Than Wednesday—Close Thursday Is Near Parity With Wednesday—Copper Dividend Not Increased.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Jan. 17.—With sales of about a million shares the market closed Thursday very close to the low point for the day on most of the leading trade issues. The dividend in Amalgamated and kindred copper properties was left unchanged by the directors at the meeting and the stock of Amalgamated slumped somewhat at the close, checking a general rally that would have made a higher closing rather than one near the low levels of the day.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Jan. 17.—After midday the market was dull and upon the whole did not hold rallies wel for anything but the most active stocks. There was a very bad market as was shown by the sale of 200 shares of Lackawanna at a concesion of 30 points. Perhaps this is why there is no real quotation at all for certainly recently much-manipulated industrial stocks.

Guesses as to the names of outside operators forced to liquidate are plentiful. They are probably not much, but one of them is that a much-discussed speculator associated with an equally well-advertised brand of wine had been obliged to unload.

J. R. Williston & Co. and other activcommission houses seemed to have Amalgamated Copper for sale on occasional rallies. Strong, Sturgis & Co. were conspicuous in the same connection.

The range of prices during the greater part of the day was not wide, and an hour before the close found only a few of the active rail issues more than a point below the opening, which indicated a very small, if any, loss in the finals of Wednesday. Amalgamated Copper was as low as 115¼ on the expectation that the dividend would not be increased.

Southern Railway shares (common) declined to 28½ when it became definitely known that the system wanted to float $20,000,000 of short term notes. The preferred stock was not affected so visibly.

Erie developed no advance, but shortly before the close reached a low of 38¾, which is ¾ of a point below the low of Wednesday.

NEW YORK, Jan. 17.—The market Thursday opened fractionally higher over both lists. Virginia Coal and Coke opened 2¼ up, at 88, and went at once to 96¾.

Delaware & Hudson has been on the decline two days. It opened Thursday at 216, Wednesday's finals, and declined further.

The Hill stocks were in the fractional advance, but the Harriman Pacifics were in the list of fractional declines.

The market tone on opening is good and activity is apparent. Southern Railway, Chicago & Northwestern and Chesapeake & Ohio evinced no disposition to get out of the low rut of Wednesday on the opening quotations.

HARRISON WEDS DIVORCEE.

Ex-Congressman Met Mrs. Cox in the West Indies.

LONDON, Jan. 17.—Former Congressman Francis Burton Harrison of New York, son of Mrs. Burton Harrison, the authoress, was married here yesterday to Mrs. Mabel Judson Cox, daughter of Henry L. Judson and divorced wife of Dr. Roland Cox Jr. of New York. The bridegroom's mother, his cousin, Lord Fairfax, best man, and American Charge d'Affairs Carter, with relatives and friends of the bride from New York and Baltimore, attended the ceremony at All Souls' Church, Portland place.

After the death of his beautiful wife in an automobile accident in Long Island City, N. Y., Mr. Harrison went to the West Indies, where he met Mrs. Cox, who had just separated from her husband in Cuba. After obtaining a divorce, Mrs. Cox went to France and Mr. Harrison joined her soon afterward.

The bridegroom is 34 years old. He served in the Spanish-American War. He is wealthy in his own right and from the estate of his first wife. She was Miss Mary Crocker of San Francisco and was killed Nov. 25, 1905, when her automobile crashed into a telegraph pole. She left over $3,000,000 to her husband and three small daughters.

STORM STRIKES CHICAGO.

Interrupts Telegraph Service and Ties Up Cars.

CHICAGO, Jan. 17.—The storm that has been central in the Southwest for a number of days struck Chicago last night, begining wit hsleet and turning later to snow and rain. Telegraphic service south and west of Chicago was interrupted part of the night.

The sleet caused delays on the elevated roads, but the surface lines experienced little trouble because of the "ice cutters" on the trolley.

The heavens were lighted by brilliant flashes of electricity as trains on the elevated roads struggled against the sleet. A thin coating of ice formed over the third rail and the flashes resulted. Only slow progress can be made by trains on all roads.

ALL GRAINS SCORE ADVANCES

Principal Trading Was in Coarse Grains, Which Made Big Advances.

WHEAT UP IN SYMPATHY

Cash Demand Firm, Northwestern and Local Movements Continue Light.

Local wheat was steady on the upgrade Thursday, though trading was rather light in wheat, being centered mainly on the coarse grains. The close on wheat was ⅝@¾c higher, on corn ⅝@¾c higher and ¼@⅜c higher on oats.

May wheat opened unchanged at 75⅛c, went as low as 75@75⅛c, advanced steadily to 76¼@76⅜c and closed at 76¼c bid. July wheat opened unchanged at 74½c, went as low as 74⅜@74½c and advanced steadily to 75⅛@75⅜c, closing with bids at the latter price.

May corn opened unchanged at 42⅝c, went as low as 42½c and advanced steadily the rest of the session, closing at 43¼c bid. July corn opened unchanged at 43c, and closed at 43⅝c bid.

January oats opened ⅜c higher at 36½c and closed at 36⅝c bid. May option opened ⅛@¼c higher at 37⅛c, and closed at 37⅝@¾c bid. July oats was ⅝c higher at 34c bid.

Liverpool future wheat closed ⅛d higher, with spot firm and unchanged. Paris closed ¼c to ½c lower on wheat, and unchanged on flour. Berlin wheat closed unchanged. Budapest wheat ¼c higher, and Antwerp wheat unchanged to ⅛c higher.

There was a good tone to the wheat market throughout, though trading in coarse grain overshadowed that in wheat. At the start there was some slight heaviness, there being poor buying power, and the market acting dull. The good cables, however, coupled with the light Northwestern and local movements and the strength in corn and oats, the latter being the chief feature, stimulated a good demand and materially curtailed the offerings. There was not much news of importance, but prices advanced steadily all day, following the gains in corn and oats.

The late trading was quite active, with a good demand, and the advance was maintained until the end, closing quotations being ⅝@¾c higher for the day. Advices from Argentine report that conditions are favorable, that harvesting is practically completed and that the total output this year will be 15 per cent larger than last year. It is said that locusts are doing considerable damage to the crop, and that the authorities are doing little to suppress this evil.

The local cash demand was good, a light business being transacted at steady to slightly higher prices; offerings continue light. Chicago cash wheat was steady, with the demand and offerings light, and no changes in the differences. Minneapolis cash wheat was in good demand, with No. 1 Northern 2¼c over May option, and No. 2 Northern at May price to ¼c under. Total clearances of wheat and flour for the day were 138,000 bu.

Corn continued broad and active, the chief features being the strength in oats and prospects of a retarded movement, owing to the very unfavorable weather throughout the corn belt. It is said that corn in the cribs is being damaged by the warm and wet weather. Cables were unchanged to ¼d lower, this being ignored, however. Buying was very good and after several round lots had been purchased by the traders responsible for yesterday's bulge, the shorts began to cover and were anxious buyers during the late part of the session, bidding prices up steadily. Prices closed the day ⅝c to ¾c higher for the day. The market on cash corn was strong, with a good demand and prices generally higher. Chicago cash corn was ½c to ½c higher with a good demand. Total clearances of corn for the day were 244,000 bu.

Oats was very strong all day on a good general demand, considerable new long lines being taken on and the short lines being actively cornered. Prices were on the upgrade all day, being helped along by the strength in corn, the market being broad and active. The close was ¼c to ⅝c higher for the day. The cash demand for oats was strong, with prices sharply higher. Chicago cash corn was ¼c to ½c higher. Total clearance of oats for the day were 10,000 bu.

Minneapolis received 200 cars of wheat today, against 360 last year, and Duluth 76, against 129 last year, making a total of 216 cars, against 489 last year.

STATE SENATOR EXPELLED.

Bribe-Taker Walks Lobby as Arkansans Vote.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Jan. 17.—While the State Senate yesterday voted its refusal of his resignation and expelled him from the body, Senator R. R. Adams of Grant County paced back and forth in the lobby with bowed head.

The expulsion resolution, introduced by Oldham of Pulaski says Adams admitted having accepted a bribe of $100 from Senator Butt for a vote in the Senate's last session. Ex-Senator Butt is in the Penitentiary following his conviction of bribery.

William Lambert of Hot Springs, defeated for the senatorial nomination by Adams two years ago, was appointed by Gov. Davis to fill Adams' unexpired term.

On the twenty-fifth ballot in the House yesterday the deadlock over the speakership was broken by the election of Allen H. Hamiter of Lafayette.

ENGLISH BANK RATE REDUCED

Its Increase Two Months Ago Caused Big Stock Decline.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Jan. 17.—The most welcome news of recent weeks to the stock market and financial center is the reduction at their meeting this morning by the Bank of England directors of the minimum rate of discount from 6 to 5 per cent.

It was the increase of the rate from 5 to 6 per cent two months ago that caused the big slump in the stock market, from which it did not recover entirely.

BLOOD POISON, SKIN DISEASES, SORES, VARICOSE OR HYDROCYSTIC ENLARGEMENTS, URINARY TROUBLES, NERVOUS DECLINE, PILES, FISTULA, KIDNEY, BLADDER OR ANY AFFECTION PECULIAR TO MEN.

Dr. French says: "It is no more than I expect to hear nearly every man who consults me relate a long story of his having been unsuccessfully treated, but in nine cases out of ten such experience can be attributed to the fault of the afflicted man, for he has had himself under the care of physicians of not sufficient age and experience to be past their experimental practice."

Any man seeking treatment should know that to insure himself of effectual treatment he should employ a specialist of ripe age and long experience.

COME TO SEE ME and note the difference in the way an experienced specialist will treat you, and how soon you can be benefited by the right kind of treatment. If you are skeptical I can refer you to former patients, who will vouch for my conscientious, successful, "Golden Rule" dealings with them.

I protect my patients against loss by giving them a written contract to return every dollar they pay me for services if they are not completely and permanently cured, and it is because my well-tried, effective methods cure such a large per cent of cases that I am able to give this advantage which other specialists do not offer.

CULLOM NAMED FIFTH TIME.

Yates Gracefully Withdraws From Caucus.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Jan. 17.—After two hours of speechmaking the joint Republican caucus of the Illinois Legislature yesterday nominated Shelby M. Cullom for his fifth term as United States Senator. No less than 50 members paid short tributes to the veteran Senator. Senator John Humphrey made his fourth seconding speech and Representative Shanahan his third.

The most striking speech of the evening was made by Senator E. C. Curtis, representing former Gov. Yates. He said that, at the request of Gov. Yates, who was a candidate for United States Senator, he desired to withdraw the ex-Governor's name from the consideration of the caucus. He said that Gov. Yates asked that members who felt instructed to vote for him cast their ballots for the candidate who received a majority of the popular vote.

The Democratic caucus nominated former Supreme Court Justice Carroll C. Boggs for United States Senator. Of the 57 votes cast, Boggs received 40, James Hamilton Lewis of Chicago 16 and former Supreme Court Justice A. M. Craig of Galesburg 1 vote.

CARNEGIE PRIZE TO LIFT MORTGAGE ON MINE HERO'S HOME

Man Who Extinguished Fuse Near Giant Powder Is Given Sum He Needed—Parents of St. Louis Girl and Widow of Swimmer Receive Awards for Bravery of Their Dead.

THE $850 which, dispatches from Pittsburg say, is to be given to Theodore Boettcher, a Belleville coal miner, along with a Carnegie medal for heroism, will fit very nicely over the $850 mortgage on Boettcher's little home. The news that Boettcher had been honored by the trustees of the Carnegie hero medal fund had not reached Boettcher's home when a Post-Dispatch reporter called Thursday.

Boettcher had already gone to his work at the Shiloh mine and Mrs. Boettcher told the story of the act which won him the hero medal.

As she knows the story, Boettcher and Daniel Hopp were working as shot firers Nov. 16, 1905, in the Muren mine, near Belleville. Their duty was to enter the mine late in the afternoon, after the miners had left, and blast the coal so that it would be ready for the miners the next morning.

Hopp was in one room, Boettcher in another. Hopp had fired one shot, and had gone back and lighted the fuse of the second blast, when a mass of coal and slate fell on him.

Boettcher heard Hopp cry for help. He rushed into the room. The smoke from the first blast was choking and so dense that Boettcher could not see the sputtering fuse.

Grasps Burning Fuse.

"Get the squib, get the squib," Hopp called out using the term the miners employ for fuse.

Boettcher, with the burning fuse running closer to the charge of blasting powder, felt along the wall until something burned his hand. He grasped it. It was the squib burned almost to the hole in the wall. Boettcher plucked it out.

All the time he was running the risk of the blast going off and burying him beneath tons of coal.

Boettcher has never been able to explain how he lifted 40 pounds of weight from Hopp and carried him to the cage. Hopp died three days later from his injuries.

Thomas R. Mould, an attorney who was formerly a coal miner, was in Pittsburg on his wedding journey some time later, and told the hero commission of Boettcher's act. John P. Cowan, a special agent for the commission, visited Belleville and Boettcher's home in November.

Boettcher is 37 years old and has five children.

Girl's Act Honored.

The parents of the late Miss Jewel H. Reed, who lives at 1625 Missouri avenue, and the widow of Herman J. Petzel of 1897 Market street, will receive Carnegie hero medals in honor of the acts of heroism in which Miss Reed and Petzel lost their lives. Mrs. Petzel will receive, besides the medal, $1500 from the Carnegie hero fund.

Miss Reed, who was 17 years old, was burned to death Jan. 16, 1906, at her home, then at 1611 Missouri avenue, while trying to save Mrs. Henry Herman, an invalid.

She had rushed upstairs to Mrs. Herman's room, and was carrying her out when the flames cut off the stairway. Miss Reed took refuge with her burden in the bathroom, where the bodies of both were found after the fire. Miss Reed's arms were still clasped about the woman she tried to save. Another woman's life was lost in this fire.

At Roth's Grove, St. Louis county, July 4, 1905, Herman J. Petzel was standing near the swimming pool when he heard John J. Heet, 15 years old, who was in swimming, cry for help. Petzel threw off his coat and swam to Heet. Heet seized his rescuer and both were drowned.

Of the awards of ten silver and eight bronze Carnegie medals made in Pittsburg Wednesday, according to dispatches from that city the following were presented with medals: Luther H. Wagner of Wilton, Pa., in memory of his son, who was drowned at Parkville, Mo., while trying to rescue a girl; Benjamin F. Willitts of Rushville, Mo., and James Lukins of Petersburg, Ill.

EGAN IS ARRESTED.

Suspected of Shooting Gagel at Jolly Five Club.

After severe cross-examination by Chief Desmond of eight men, arrested after a shooting affray Tuesday at the Jolly Five Social Club, 1505 Morgan street, Thomas Egan of 818 Wash street, 32 years old, was arrested Wednesday night.

In the shooting William Gagel was wounded in the back and left hip. He is at the City Hospital in a serious condition. Gagel refused positively to say who had shot him. The eight men arrested, most of whom were known to have been present or frequenters of the club, also preserved silence.

During a large part of Wednesday Desmond systematically questioned the men. After the questioning he ordered the arrest of Egan as the man who had shot Gagel.
